FOREWORD

This yearbook depicts the centennial year of San Jose High School. Since 1863 our school and its traditions have been a living part of the community. Our theme, "our roots are broad and deep," indicates not only the role San Jose High School has played in the history of our community; it also emphasizes the extension of this role into the present, and, through the students of San Jose High School today, into the future of our community, our state, our nation, and our world.

This edition presents a synopsis of the many ways in which the principles of democracy are reflected in this one institution. We have, in our school philosophy, the foundations of equality for all mankind. This philosophy represents a tradition of which we are very proud.

In addition to portraying the present, we shall try to re-create the highlights of the history of our school and what it has come to mean to our community. We shall attempt, in all earnestness, to present to you the roots of our past and the hopes and ideals of our present and future in a unique yearbook of this, our centennial year.

DEDICATION

The year 1963 is significant for it represents San Jose High School's one-hundredth anniversary. This year culminates a century filled with memories for all graduates of San Jose High School to look back upon with fond recollections. These graduates have left many wonderful memories and traditions here. As the future generations enter the halls of San Jose High, they will be enveloped in its grand history.

It is to the past, present, and future graduates that the 1963 Centennial Bell is hereby dedicated. The pages which lie within these covers are designed to recall memories, moments, and traditions which will last in the hearts of the readers forever.

TO THE FACULTY, STUDENTS AND ALUMNI OF SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL

It is a pleasure to extend to you my heartiest congratulations on the 100th anniversary of the founding of San Jose High School. In the years since 1863, your school has maintained a position of educational leadership befitting one of the oldest public high schools in our state. My best wishes for another 100 years of service to education and to your community.

Sincerely,
EDMUND G. BROWN,
Governor, State of California

Greetings from
Congressman Don Edwards, Class of 1932

I regret that Congressional duties preclude my being with you to join in the celebration of the 100th Birthday of San Jose High School. I have always been proud of being a graduate of San Jose High. Friendships made during these years have continued. And when we meet and talk about school days, we always agree that it was and is a good school, and that to have spent those years at San Jose High places us amongst the lucky ones of this difficult world.

Please accept my most affectionate best wishes. And may the second hundred years be as good, as creative, and as beneficial to our community, our country, and our world as the first 100.

The great City of San Jose in all its historical traditions is proud of its many tangible achievements. The City of San Jose, in its span of over 100 years, has made its mark historically, culturally, sociologically, and foremost, educationally. Our educational institutions are our greatest assets. Notably, San Jose High School stands out among the bright stars in our galaxy of secondary education.

In this centennial year of San Jose High School, on behalf of all the citizens of San Jose, as the Mayor I send you my heartiest congratulations and best wishes for continued success in the years that lie ahead.

Kindest personal regards and best wishes.

ROBERT WELCH,
Mayor, City of San Jose

It is with a very sincere and deep feeling of pride on this occasion, your Centennial Year, to congratulate each and every one of the members of the Administration, the Faculty, and the Student Body. Indeed it has been a century of outstanding educational service which you are to share with those who preceded you.

Graduates of San Jose High School have spread its name wide and into high places by serving well in all phases of this nation's citizenry. Be it in the field of business, professional, medical, spiritual, or political, their presence will long be remembered.

I am very proud to have been a member of the San Jose High School Class of January 1927 whose members have never failed to assemble for their annual reunion over the past thirty-six years.

San Jose High School is being wished every success as it prepares for the many challenges to come during the second century of educating those who will be among the leaders of tomorrow.

Cordially yours,
RALPH H. MEHRKENS,
Chairman,
Board of Supervisors
Santa Clara County

SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL --A CENTURY OF SERVICE

July, 1912, Bell, provides historical mood

Where does one begin in telling the story of a high school which for a century has served its young people and its community? Which of the labels applied to human beings should be listed first in this chronicle? Students, teachers, administrators, staff, school board, taxpayers, community — all are involved. So is that inanimate object, the building, which each year comes to pulsing life artificially as it echoes the steps, the voices and the sounds of succeeding generations.

First, perhaps, should come the community, the gathering of people in a geographic location. Then comes the decision — that a school is needed to provide more advanced training than the grammar school can provide — to prepare the young people for several paths. Some today will go on to higher education, in the community's own junior college or to the state college, in the state's university or some other fine center of advanced learning. Others will go into trade schools or vocational training. Still others will go directly into jobs in the community.

Next comes the course of study, the faculty, the building, and the leaders who will bring these elements together — the community leaders on the school board and at its meetings, and the professionals, the superintendent and his lieutenants who will muster the forces to do battle with ignorance, apathy, and prejudice.

Finally, and most important, the walls erected, the supplies in place, the teachers marshalled, come the students who a few years hence will make the same preparations for the training of their children in the cycle we call civilization.

THE HISTORY OF SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL

As the students tramped up the stairs, the fragrance of fresh flour from Mr. Orbon's store teased their nostrils. Busy housewives pushed open the door and placed their orders for flour in the store, while upstairs energetic John Joseph Bowen, then 33 years old, instructed his pupils in intermediate and advanced grammar subjects.

Also, with the tacit approval of Rev. Laurentine Hamilton, minister of the First Presbyterian Church and president of the San Jose School Board, Mr. Bowen fed his better students some work on a high school level.

This is the picture painted by Mr. Clyde Arbuckle, San Jose's current city historian, of the beginnings of San Jose High School, on the basis of historical references available to him.

The time was the winter of 1863-64. The place was a room above Orbon's flour store, on about the spot where the Twohy Building stands today, at 210 S. First St. Across the street the noise of a foundry frequently pulled the attention of the students away from Mr. Bowen's lectures.

Into what sort of community was San Jose High School born? "It bids fair to become the Athens of the Pacific," read a contemporary boast of the '60s recounted by James and McMurry in their "History of San Jose." Santa Clara Street ended at 10th Street, and business was swinging toward First Street. The entire Santa Clara County in 1860 had 2,295 families (total population, 11,912) and San Jose Township alone by 1870 had mushroomed to 2,547 families, or a total population of 12,525.

The town already had a long and distinguished history. It was, in fact, the first civilian community, or "pueblo," of the Spanish colony of Alta California. Governor Felipe de Neve had sent exploratory parties south from the presidio at San Francisco to find suitable sites for civilian communities. These, where residents would settle, raise crops and market them, would provide food and taxes to support the chain of military presidios and religious missions which already had been founded.

This building, the old Horace Mann school on Santa Clara Street between 6th and 7th streets, was San Jose High School's home from 1868 to 1898.

This handsome structure, declared one of the finest high schools in California at the time, housed San Jose High School starting Sept. 30, 1898, on Washington Square.

On Nov. 29, 1777, young Don Jose Joaquin Moraga, commandante of the San Francisco presidio, crossed the heavily wooded area called the Llano de los Robles (Plain of the Oaks), stopped at the banks of the Guadalupe River, and proclaimed the spot El Pueblo de San Jose de Guadaloupe. Soon 66 settlers, including women and children, made their home there. Twenty years later, vexed by annual floods, they moved the pueblo site south to higher ground.

By 1794 a makeshift school, one of the first three in the California territory, was operating in a San Jose granary. Years passed and loyalties shifted. In 1822 San Jose pledged its allegiance to Mexico. Then, with the discovery of gold in Sutter's Creek to the north in 1849, population boomed still more. The new settlers brought ideas of freedom and union with them. The state's constitutional convention in Monterey in 1849 named San Jose the first capital of the newly free territory.

The legislature convened its first session in San Jose on Dec. 15, 1849, and elected Peter Burnett the first governor. The city incorporated March 27, 1850, a short time after Stockton. A few months later, on Sept. 9, 1850, California became the newest of the United States of America, with its political center at San Jose.

The axe had caused the woods to give way to grain, and stock and vegetables were growing in importance. The 1798 "juzgado" (city hall and jail or "jug" or "hoosegow" was torn down in 1850, and a new fortress-like city hall took its place.

Recognizing the need for a system of free public schools, the residents organized the San Jose school board on April 16, 1856. In January, 1857, the board ordered an $8,000 schoolhouse built in Washington Square, on the Fourth Street side facing San Antonio Avenue. This one-room building was to become San Jose High School's first separate home.

THE DAY THE QUAKE HIT

"My older sister Hazel (Bunny) was starting a fire for breakfast," Mrs. Margaret Bunny Tucker recalls of that Wednesday morning, April 18, 1906, when the earthquake struck San Francisco, San Jose, and other points on the San Andreas fault. "I was asleep when the earthquake hit. I didn't move from my bed, and Hazel stood still. A great crash was heard over the noise of the small buildings crumbling around us. It was the big two-story building of the high school, crashing into a mass of ruins. The whole area was put under martial law and no one was allowed in or out without a pass."

The San Jose Evening News reported the next afternoon, "The High School is a mass of ruins. Had the calamity occurred at a later hour, when the school was full of students, the death list would have been appalling.

"A detachment was marched to the High School that was rapidly being looted."

Considerable confusion over exact historical data about San Jose High School has arisen periodically over the years. This has not been helped by dogmatically asserted statements published in local newspapers, fairly close to the years in question, without any reference to historical sources which might authenticate the statements. Often these statements overlooked directly contradictory statements published just a year or so earlier but not referred to by the writer. Mr. Arbuckle and the present writer are satisfied, perhaps with dogmatism equal to that of misled earlier writers, that the account here presented is an authentic one. The accounts of the grading of the classes and the establishment of the high school are recorded in the minutes of the San Jose School Board and have been read by the present researchers.

Early Wednesday, April 18, 1906, the earthquake wreaked havoc on the San Jose High School building. Martial law was imposed as bands of looters roamed the site.

The old Lincoln School at 408 Almaden Ave., later the central office of the San Jose Unified School District for many years, provided a temporary home for San Jose High School from the earthquake until the 1908 building was completed.

In 1863 the school board was busily occupied with meeting the problems of keeping the several small school buildings in repair.

Money was a growing problem. The schools earlier had been the stepchildren of the authorities. For example, in 1794, under the rule of the Spanish, Bandini reports in his "History of California," there were no books in use, but primers were provided. Writing paper was furnished by the military authorities and had to be returned when a child was through so it might be used in making cartridges. School was for boys only. The instructor in charge of the San Jose school in the previously mentioned granary was a retired sergeant of the Spanish army. "Teachers knew little about teaching and parents didn't force the students to go to school."

The Rev. Mr. Hamilton, who was school board president from Nov. 3, 1862, to Nov. 14, 1864, was determined that the schools would be supported adequately. The first state constitution provided for a common school system supported by money from the sale of public lands. It also instructed that schools be kept open three months a year. The 1863 minutes note that the schools at that time operated five months a year.

In the minutes of the June 30, 1863, school board meeting, at which it was decided to levy a tax on property to raise $4,500 for the support of the schools, the name of J. J. Bowen is listed, apparently for the first time. He was one of five applicants for the position of principal and teacher. The school district had been divided into north and south sections in 1858, and Mr. Bowen won over C. Morton, W. C. Hart, A. D. Fuller and T. W. J. Holbrook as principal of District 2. D. B. Moody, clerk pro tem of the board, reported Mr. Holbrook was chosen as principal of District 1.

Although the Civil War, which was destined to result in the Emancipation Proclamation and subsequent declarations of the equality of all men, was then going on, segregation was the practice at that time, it might be noted. The school board on Aug. 5, 1863, determined that $50 a month be appropriated for support of "a school in this

THE TRIP TO LICK OBSERVATORY

"It was the custom for the graduating class to go by stage to Mount Hamilton, stopping at Smith Creek for lunch and going on in the afternoon to the Observatory, there to look through the telescopes after dark," Mr. Herbert C. Jones, of the class of 1898, recounted in Dick Barrett's column in the San Jose Mercury-News of May 12, 1963. (Mr. Jones' notable career as lawyer and state senator is told in the alumni section of this volume.)

"My class, in compliance with this practice, took the trip in June," Mr. Jones continues. "On the return trip down the mountain we sang the songs of the day, particularly 'On the Banks of the Wabash.' The stage got back to San Jose about 2 o'clock in the morning, took the girls around to their respective homes, but dumped the boys all out at First and Santa Clara and made them walk home.

"I remember walking out along The Alameda, with haycocks where the YMCA building now stands and the lines of the song running through my mind: 'The moonlight is fair tonight along the Wabash, From the fields there comes a breath of new mown hay'."

city for colored children, providing the school shall number twenty or more pupils in attendance.

Mr. Bowen began his teaching duties with energy, although he apparently was not trained as a teacher. The "Great Register of Voters" of July 30, 1866, lists John Joseph Bowen, then 36, as a native of Indiana and a surveyor, noting he had been appointed county surveyor for the term of 1965-1867. (He served as principal from 1863 to 1865.) Earlier, in 1861, he was listed in "Pen Pictures from the Garden of the World" as being associated financially with the San Jose Weekly Mercury, possibly as a partner.

The Bell, then a monthly illustrated literary journal and news magazine, in March, 1904, pictured Lick Observatory and reported the High Senior Class would visit it on April 29.

To most contemporary adult San Jose High School graduates, the name of San Jose High School brings to mind the campus of San Jose State College, once known as Washington Square, which housed the new earthquake-proof high school from 1908 to 1952, at which time the school was moved to its present site.

THE STUDENTS' ROLE IN THE 1908 SCHOOL

Two students, Victor A. Weigle and John T. Gribner of the class of 1908, were given much of the credit for the new Washington Square building by their fellow students and the editors of the 1908 June "Bell" edition.

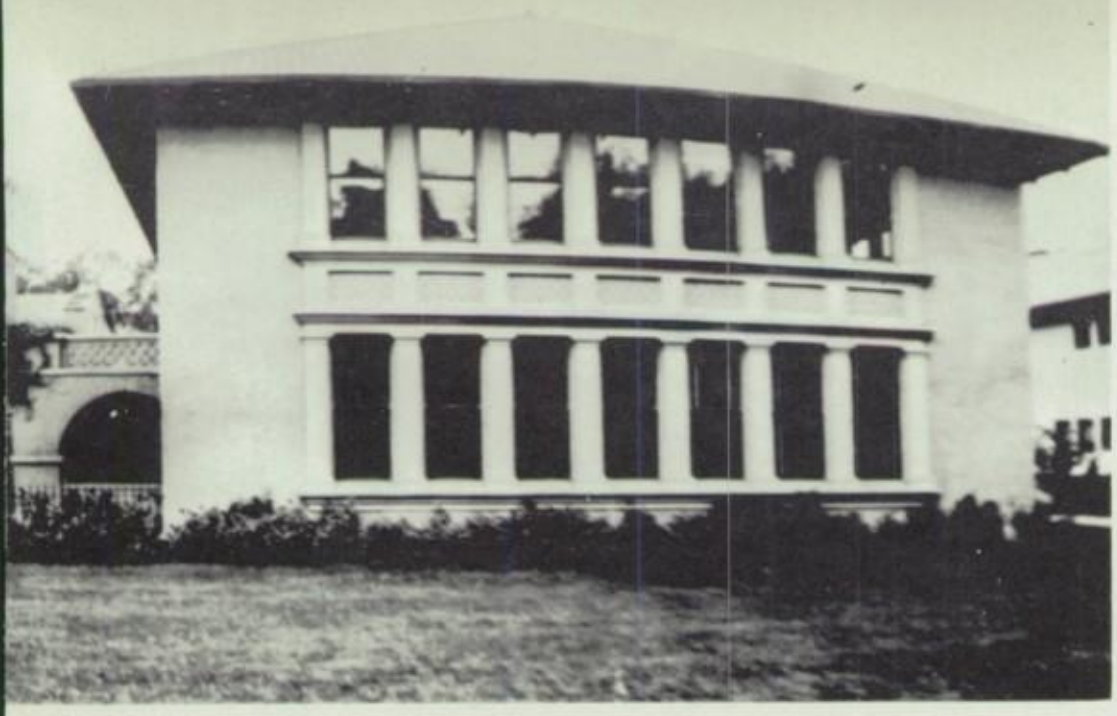
"They loaned their time from their studies to plead with the citizens for a new school and this they succeeded in getting," the "Bell" explained. The $175,000 bond issue was voted on Oct. 20, 1906, just six months after the earthquake.

"Big John" (Jack) Gribner was first assistant "Bell" manager and later "Bell" editor. (He was also yell leader, track captain, trophy keeper, declamation team member, Peninsula Athletic League representative, actor-member of Mask and Scroll, and member of the boys' literary society, the Senate.) His talent for organizing and fund-raising did not go unnoticed. The "Bell" for November, 1908, five months after his graduation, reports he then held "a responsible position in the Bank of San Jose."

"Little Vic" Weigle was successively assistant editor and editor of the "Bell." He too was an actor in Mask and Scroll Dramatics club. In addition, he was a reporter on the just-organized "Herald," member of Gamma Eta Kappa social fraternity, and manager of both track and football.

John and Vic organized rallies to promote the passage of the bonds. (Born promotion men, they joined with George Kock in staging a football game on skates at the auditorium rink, the November, 1907, "Bell" informs us.) One such rally occurred the night of Oct. 12, 1906, eight days before the election. Capitalizing on the natural love for a Saturday night of revelry, "an enthusiastic group of high school boys and girls gathered in front of the ruins of the old high school to build enthusiasm for a new school," the "Bell" for that month recorded. "By the light of a huge bonfire, all donned the badge, 'Vote for School Bonds,' and Japanese lanterns were handed to the boys. John Gribner, president of the student body, addressed the assemblage and the boys formed a line and marched through the principal streets of the city. Also present were David Starr Jordan of Stanford (the university's president) and Prof. Suzallo of Stanford; representatives of the Woman's Club and the High School Girls' Glee Club, which gave a selection." This vivid description was found by Romulo (Butch) Lagasca, 1962 "Bell" editor, who returned from his college studies this year to join in historical research.

The November, 1906, "Bell" adds that "many of the high school" students procured vehicles and worked hard to get out the vote."



Mr. Bowen pitched in at once to make a success of his new duties. He soon came to the attention of the area's teachers, and, at the September, 1863, convention of the Bay Counties' Teachers Institute in San Jose, he was elected assistant secretary of that organization, the Sept. 16 "Patriot" reported.

Then commenced a "knock-'em-down, drag-'em out" election campaign to pass a $25,000 bond issue to provide adequate school facilities for the 1,000 school-age children the Rev. Mr. Hamilton said there were at the time. Current school rooms could house only 250, he lamented.

On Dec. 1, 1863, clerk Moody wrote in the ornately-lettered school board minutes, "It was moved and carried that a committee of four be appointed to memorialize the Legislature to pass an act allowing the City to issue bonds not to exceed $25,000 for the purpose of erecting a school house, subject to a vote of the people in accordance with the City Charter." Mr. Moody, Dr. Cobb, Mr. Quinby, and Mr. Pomeroy comprised the committee.

This was the entrance to the administration wing of the 1908 campus. The wooden sign now stands adjacent to Bulldog Boulevard facing 24*th Street on the present campus, which opened in* 1952.

This view of the front cloister of the 1908 building, looking east, is from the handsome, although partially incomplete brochure containing "The History of San Jose High School, written by Judge P. F. Gosbey, then school board president. The booklet, "An House of Learning by & for the People of San Jose California A.D. MCMVIII," was issued in 1908 at the time the new school was dedicated. Only a few copies remain.

The town was torn by section feelings at this time, during the height of the Civil War, City Historian Arbuckle recounts today. Some residents were for the South and others were for the North. The school bond issue provided an added chance for divisiveness to express itself. Some religious groups were against it. The Rev. Mr. Hamilton's Presbyterian flock, of course, supported him and the bond proposal. Feelings on many issues, such as politics, were so high that the local paper, "The Tribune," violently anti-administration and owned by Mr. George O'Doherty, had been suppressed, for the second time, in September of 1863. This was by order of Brig. Gen. George Wright, Pacific commandant of President Abraham Lincoln's Union forces. The "Tribune" ceased publication on Sept. 11 and was sold to Mr. Francis B. Murdoch, who issued it under the name, "The San Jose Patriot," starting on Sept. 16.

"We have never seen so much interest manifested in an election as was exhibited on Monday (March 7, 1864)," Mr. Murdoch editorialized in the "Patriot" of Wednesday, March 9. Little boys distributed election literature and ladies urged their husbands to support it, he continued. Catholic and secession groups opposed the bond issue, he reported. Of the 510 votes cast, there were 295 for and 215 against, a majority of 80.

Praising the passage of the bonds as "our glorious victory," Mr. Murdoch explained that the people had okayed a central school edifice for the use of the high school. This provides concrete evidence of the campaign the Rev. Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Bowen had been waging for recognition of an advanced school. The minister had spoken energetically and enthusiastically during the winter campaign. The new school, which was not destined to go into use until Jan. 1, 1868, would bring together advanced students from all over the township, not merely from District 1 or District 2.

Steps toward formalizing the high school program had been taken at the board meeting which convened at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 22, 1863. Mr. Bowen was obviously already coaching his brighter students in work of more difficulty, apparently with the encouragement of the board president, but some official authorization was needed. Thus it was that the following resolution was penned by Mr. Moody:

"Resolved that we establish a graded school."

The resolution was adopted and it was moved that a suitable room for the grammar department be rented. The following Wednesday, Dec. 30, 1863, Mr. Quinby reported a room could be rented on the upper floor of Mr. Peck's brick building for $20 per month. Mr. Miles, who was present at the meeting, said he'd be happy to make the "Rankin Double Desk" for $5.50 each, and a motion authorized hiring him "to make 30 at that rate for our grammar school." Mr. Quinby was named to prepare the room for the advanced students.

The sturdy construction of the "classical cloister" of the 1908 building gives clear evidence that the board had no intention of allowing an earthquake to destroy San Jose High School a second time.

A dominant feature of the main central building between the two towers of the 1908 building was this spacious assembly hall, shown before the upper and lower balconies were added, according to the comment of one current faculty member.

A report on page 3 of Mr. Murdoch's "Patriot" for Jan. 6, 1864, makes clear the import of the Dec. 30 meeting and is reprinted here with the publisher's own grammar and capitalization.

"The Board of Education have (sic) resolved to grade the schools and place the most advanced scholars in both schools in a district school under the immediate charge of Mr. J. J. Bowen, a gentleman who has shown himself to be eminently qualified for the important duties of the position. This school will be a high school (the words "high school" were in italics) —the high school of our San Jose Common School system."

Mr. Murdoch then went on to report the Rev. Mr. Hamilton had urged a central location for the school and added that a room was even then being fitted out for the purpose.

The present writer has devoted this space to the account of the founding of the secondary school system in San Jose, perhaps at the expense of space for more recent and more easily accessible data, to clearly substantiate the year 1863-64 as the date of the inauguration of the forerunner of San Jose High School. This date is not new — the program issued when the present school was dedicated in November, 1952, clearly listed 1863 as the date when secondary school instruction was instituted in the San Jose public school system. However, this fact has been lost sight of from time to time over the years. The high school paper, "The Herald," in 1914 and again in 1941 listed 1865 as the date of the founding of the high school, and Mr. Gosbey in his 1908 history makes no reference to a high school prior to 1865. That date has also been mentioned in popularized newspaper accounts of previous years.

Never before has such a volume of authentic material been gathered, with the help of those to be cited in a later acknowledgment, from a number of scattered sources and published in one sequence. It can be said, therefore, that these few humble pages constitute an unique and definitive account bringing this school's first days to life — an account that will not be scoffed at in later years by more knowledgeable historians.

THE FIRST SCHOOL OUTING

It wasn't all work and no play that first year of San Jose High School. The impulse to go out on a warm spring afternoon and enjoy the gentle breezes is a strong one, and Mr. Bowen acceded to it, on Saturday afternoon, April 30, 1864.

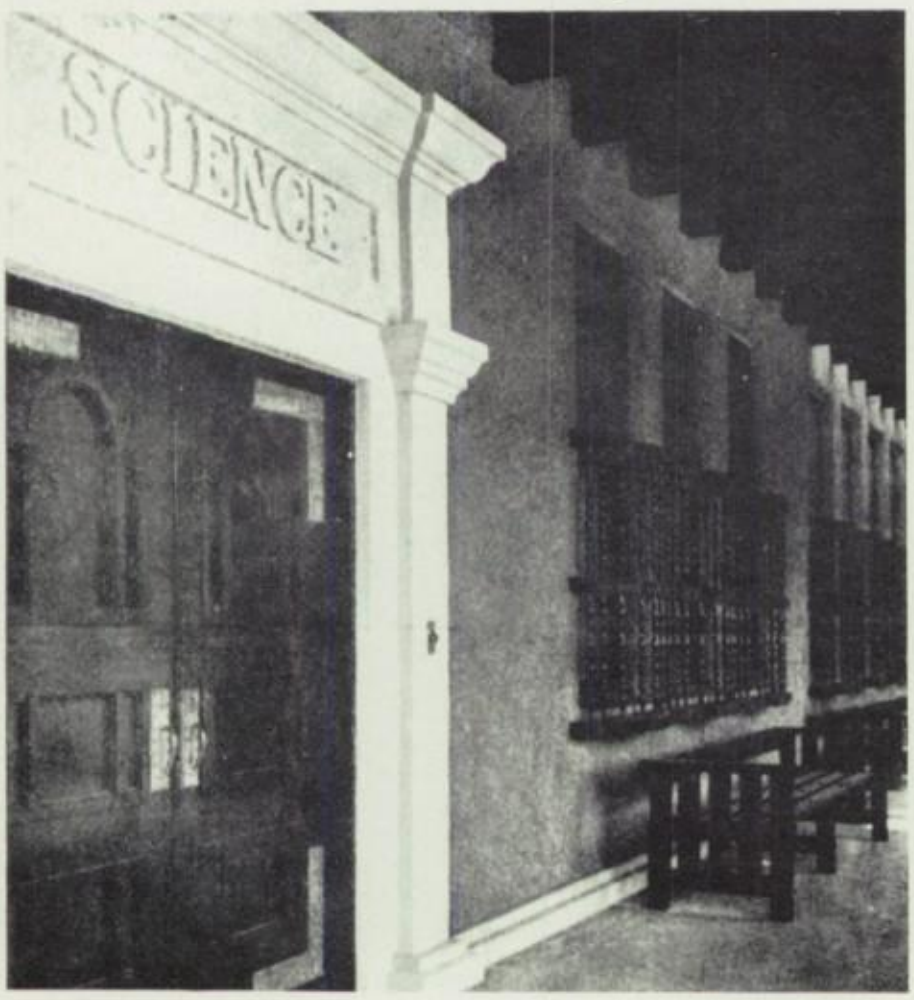
A paragraph at the bottom of the first column of page 2 of the 7-column "Patriot," issued Wadnesday, May 4, gives this account:

> The Alum Rock Picnic — The scholars attending the High School, under charge of Mr. Bowen, and quite a number also from the other public schools, had a pleasant time on Saturday last amidst the grand and beautiful scenery to be seen in the gorge through which Penetenciary creek forces its way into the valley. We are obliged to Mr. Bowen for an invitation to partake of the pleasures of the day, but on Saturday we are always compelled to be occupied with more unpleasant work.

This, then, was the new high school's first press notice. It might be noted, parenthetically, that there was a private school at the time in the community, the San Jose Institute, which advertised in the local paper. The "Patriot," on June 15, reported the San Jose Institute, primary, grammar, and high school departments, examinations would be held Tuesday, Jan. 21.

Plans were going forward that spring of 1864 for the new $25,000 building. The board, on March 4, three days before the successful election, had passed a resolution assuring the public that the new school would be solidly built. It read, in part:

"Whereas we deem it of the utmost importance that the building proposed shall be built in the most substantial manner; giving, even to our posterity the evidence of our interest and zeal, in our own, and their educational welfare — therefore, be it resolved that the Board of Education will not consent that said building shall be constructed of other than the most lasting material."



The "thoroughly equipped" two-story science building housed the biology, physiography, chemistry and physics classrooms and laboratories.

This pleasant vista greeted the student or other pedestrian walking east on San Fernando Street toward 7th Street past the 1908 San Jose High School campus.

Advertising for architects' plans for a brick schoolhouse containing four study rooms and entry rooms was authorized by the board on March 9, 1864, just two days after the bond election. It was estimated that space for 375 to 450 students should be provided, despite the Rev. Mr. Hamilton's estimate of December, 1863, that the school age population of San Jose was about 1,000 — with space for only 250 in the schools then.

Where would the handsome new building be located? On April 6, the board first considered, then rejected motions asking the city's Common Council to donate land for a schoolhouse, either in the center of Washington Square or on Market Square.

Politicking was a fine art even then. An anonymous letter, signed "The Architect," appeared in the "Patriot," suggesting possible locations for the school. The writer, perhaps Mr. Murdoch, the publisher himself, or perhaps the Rev. Mr. Hamilton who so preferred a central location, advocated a Washington Square site in preference to a Market Square location.

An architect, Mr. B. MacKay, of Santa Clara and 2nd Streets, was chosen April 13, and he agreed any expenses beyond $20,000 for the new building would be borne by him. The board on May 19 ordered published for two weeks in the Mercury an invitation to contractors to submit bids by June 2.

His first term as a high school principal and teacher concluded, Mr. Bowen on July 9, 1864, petitioned the board to raise the teaching pay. This was on a Saturday. The board notified him on Monday that it had rejected his request. He presumably startled the board by submitting his resignation that very day.

The next day, the board minutes diplomatically note, the members "accepted plans for the withdrawal of Mr. Bowen's resignation as principal of the Grammar School."

The school bank, first set up in 1912 in a room in the tower of the 1908 structure, moved to the commercial building when that structure, shown above, was added in 1914. The new ten-room east addition was formally opened on April 17, 1914. The new cafeteria opened three days earlier when a large roof was equipped so students might enjoy meals in the open air. Anotlær addition at that time was an athletic field between 5th and 6th and Martha and Virginia streets. Below, many graduates remember walking down this shady lane of the 1908-1952 campus.

Vintage of this photo of main entrance to the $175,000 building dedicated Sept. 9, 1908, can be guessed from auto in right foreground. The three archways led to the main entrance, from which three double doorways opened into the auditorium, which measured 97 by 112 feet and could seat 1,200 persons in opera chairs. Five hundred of the chairs had tablet arm rests for use in study periods.

SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL, 1865(?) - 1868

Just when the high school scholars left their second-floor home is not clear. Mr. Orbon sold his flour store, and it was presumably occupied by another business. In perhaps the fall of 1864 or of 1865, the high school was moved to the one-room $8,000 structure on Washington Square which had been built in 1857. The school was near the 4th Street side of the 17-acre square, facing west, on San Antonio Street.

Earlier, on Aug. 17, 1864, the board had voted to hire an assistant teacher, Mr. Mipes Skinner Dickinson, for Mr. Bowen's faculty. On Sept. 5 it was proposed that the public schools be supplied with water. A contract for a full supply was awarded on Oct. 4. On that same date the salaries for teachers were raised to $60 a month.

The new home of the school, the one-room 1857 building, was definitely occupied by the fall of 1865. On Dec. 12, 1865, the board ordered five chairs for use in the high school building. Here the words used were "high school" rather than "grammar school," and this gave rise to several accounts declaring this to be the first mention of the high school in the board minutes. In fact, young and imaginative writers of an earlier era jumped to the conclusion that the school had just been founded, since chairs were needed. Judge Gosbey's 1908 account declared this entry merely the first mention in the minutes, and conceded that the exact beginning of the school could not be stated. Young Harry Farrel, then a "Herald" school paper reporter and now political writer for the "Mercury" and "News," wrote a series of articles for the "Herald" in 1941. In his first article, he declared the Washington Square building the first San Jose High School. In his second artice he admitlted that the school may have existed elsewhere earlier.

The grammar and high school sessions were set by the board on Aug. 17, 1866, as 9 to 10:30 a.m., 10:45 a.m. to 12 noon, 1 to 2:30 p.m., and 2:45 to 4 p.m. (Narrative continues on page 25.)

WHEN THE AUDITORIUM BURNED

"It was early Thursday morning (March 14, 1935) ,and I was home listening to my crystal set," Mr. James Hood, then a San Jose High School student and now mathematics department chairman, recalls. "My father phoned from downtown to say the school was on fire. I hopped on my bicycle and pedaled over to the school. There was a big crowd there already, and we formed a bucket brigade.

"The musical instruments were in a little room off the side balcony. Some of the fellows got up there and started tossing them down to the people below to save them, but there were three times as many people tossing as there were people catching, so some of the instruments were wrecked," Mr. Hood added.

The staff of the school paper, "The Herald," which had already been made up for issuance that day, revised the dummy to provide a full (six-column) banner, "Auditorium Demolished by Fire," and borrowed the photo reproduced below from the San Jose "News." The lead story, by Clarence Brunhouse, reported the damage to the school was estimated at $75,000 by the superintendent, Mr. Walter L. Bachrodt, and he noted the loss was covered by insurance.

The fire, the story related, was discovered at 4:57 a.m., and it was 11 a.m. before it was completely under control.

Commented one former faculty member this year, in recalling what he had said on that day, "Well, it's the first time the lower balconies were ever warm."

An archway provides a frame for the dramatic photo above of one end of the sturdy building which housed San Jose High School from 1908 to 1952. The school board, in providing for the thick walls and arched cloisters, modeled the building after the Franciscan missions which so successfully withstood the weathering of the years, the heat and rain of the California climate, and the earthquakes which sometimes rattled the countryside. Mr. F. S. Allen, Pasadena architect, remembered the claims that had been made for the 1898 building and what the 1906 earthquake did to it, in assuring that the catastrophe would not be repeated. What nature and the 1935 auditorium fire could not do, the needs of the expanding San Jose State College for space succeeded in doing. The state, which had given the high school permission, by act of the State Legislature, to build on the state college land, withdrew its hospitality and ordered the school razed. Below, where students once trod, the wreckers' trucks roll.

SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL, 1868-1898

During 1867 the school board, acting in conjunction with the mayor and the Common Council, bought six lots on the north side of Santa Clara Street between 6th and 7th streets for $3,250. The new $20,000 building, financed by the 1864 $25,000 bond issue and subsequently called Horace Mann School, opened on Jan. 1, 1868. (See earlier photo.) Both the high school and grammar school used the eight-room, three-story brick and stone building, with high school classes primarily on the second floor, former State Sen. Herbert C. Jones of the class of '98 recalls. A shack in back was also used, and chemistry laboratory facilities were in the basement, with some high school classes on the third floor, students recall.

The building was too crowded, however, for the growing population. Evidence of the community's growth was the mounting list of alumni, who organized in 1879.

SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL, 1898-1906

The story of "one of the finest high schools in the state" has been told in part in captions beneath photos earlier in this volume. Ground was broken in 1897, and the school was dedicated on Sept. 30, 1898.

The course of study, which had been set at two years in 1868 and extended to three years in 1876, had drawn the criticism of the University of California as not providing enough time for the adequate study of Latin. So, in 1896, it was extended to four years. Perhaps in recognition of this improvement, the university sent its only professor of pedagogy (teaching), Elmer Brown, to speak at the dedication of the handsome brick and stone three-story structure, located once more on Washington Square, now called Normal Square. The building had been designed by Jacob Lenzen and Son, and the cost, $75,000, just matched the amount of the bond issue which had been voted. Its scope is indicated by the fact that the assembly hall would seat 1,500 to 2,000 people.

The crowding had forced students to march in and out of the Horace Mann building. This would no longer be necessary in the spacious new building, the San Jose "Weekly Mercury" of Saturday, Aug. 27, 1898, boasted.

An additional advantage was the fact that "classes will not be annoyed by passing street cars, as they have been in the past."

A whimsical touch, the message presumably scrawled by a student as the 1908 building was emptied in 1952, was captured by a San Jose Mercury photographer.

THE PRESENT HIGH SCHOOL

While San Jose High's first separate home had cost $8,000 when constructed nearly a century before, the present structure, first occupied in the fall of 1952, cost $2,500,000 — aside from fees and landscaping.

Kump Associates, architects and planning consultants of Palo Alto, drew the plans. The new structure won immediate recognition when it was selected in 1952 by the Museum of Modern Art in New York as one of the 43 outstanding American buildings of the postwar period.

Still another honor was accorded the designers when, in 1954, the building was given the "award of merit" by the American Institute of Architects in Washington, D.C.

Walls of concrete block masonry, solid grouted, were placed on a concrete foundation. An exposed sandblasted finish was used.

A workman checks smoothness of the front court of the present home of San Jose High School, first used in September, 1952, and dedicated Sunday, Nov. 2, 1952. The school's completion date was first expected to be March 13 and later predicted at May 19, but bad weather and a strike delayed it.

SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL, 1908-1952

"A school for the ages," the 1898 structure could have been dubbed, but it was not to endure. The great earthquake of Wednesday morning, April 18, 1906, (described, and its effects on San Jose High School pictured, on page 11) left the roof tilted crazily askew, the building wrecked.

Students found temporary class facilities in "emergency aid stations," the newspapers of the time report. Sessions were cut to half a day to ease the crowding. In the fall, high school classes were squeezed into the old Lincoln School, at 408 Almaden Ave., so tightly that the October "Bell" reports girls had to stop wearing the fluffy starched skirts because of the jam on the stairways.

Just six months after the earthquake, the voters, on Oct. 20, approved a $75,000 bond issue for a new and sturdier school. F. H. Allen of Pasadena designed the mission-type, university-style wings. The contract was let June 20, 1907, and Z. O. Field of San Jose was named contractor. The cornerstone was laid Admission Day, Sept. 9, 1907. An additional $20,500 in bonds for school furnishings was authorized March 21, 1908.

On Sept. 9, 1908, a year after the cornerstone ceremony, the new building between 6th and 7th streets at San Fernando Street was dedicated. Rough cement plaster exteriors, red tile roofs, archways and cloisters and two towers were the dominant features of the school, which was most familiar to the bulk of the adult San Jose population of today. The central auditorium was a landmark, until the day it burned in 1935.

Aerial view was taken just before completion of present campus in 1952. Julian Street cuts across center of ptoto, with girls' gym below it at right, shop areas to left. Above it are the main wings, boys' gym, and athletic field area. Total school site covers 35 acres.

A construction worker places ladder to make inspection of steel frame of present campus. "We would like it to be monumental," the school board had told the architects. Open courts between wings of classrooms were designed to catch cool breezes from the nearby Coyote Creek.

With additions such as the ten-room east wing opened April 17, 1914, the purchase of additional athletic fields, and addition of a gym and other improvements, the value of the school plant was reported in 1952 to have reached a million dollars. But a shock was in store for the Bulldogs.

The State of California, by an act of 1897, had authorized construction of the San Jose High School building of that year on the state's land in Washington Square, which by then was called Normal Square. By 1951, with state college enrollment swelling, the state withdrew its hospitality and served Mike Bulldog with an eviction notice.

Ironically, it was San Jose High School's Santa Clara Street (later Horace Mann School) building which had been the first temporary San Jose home of the state college (the normal school). That institution had been evicted from its Market Street home in San Francisco and spent a year, from June 14, 1871, until July, 1872, in the upper story of the Santa Clara Street School, awaiting completion of its own campus home.

SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL TODAY

Our shortest chapter, filled out with photos and captions, deals with the present $2,750,000 building which houses some 1,450 students today. It has not been static since its dedication on Sunday, Nov. 2, 1952.

In December of 1955 construction began on the music building, Room 60, and the old orchestra room became the wrestling room on completion of the new music center. A major addition to the school program was the $137,000 swimming pool first used Tuesday, Sept. 29, 1959. Ten rooms made up two new wings opened in September of 1961.

Boys gymnasium of present campus also serves as assembly hall for annual awards assembly and for pep rallies.

Stairway shown under construction in main corridor of present building leads to upstairs classroom area and library, currently the largest in the San Jose Unified School District.

A full-dress stage, exterior of which can be seen above, was added to the cafetorium in 1961 to make possible presentation of limited dramatic programs. The cafetorium change and building of two new classroom wings by Alken Construction Co. at a cost of $301,532 was made possible by a 1958 bond issue. Below, students are about to descend steps to Bulldog Boulevard alongside Room 60, the $108,724 music building erected in 1955 by Bridges Construction Co.

Newest addition, the 70 and 80 wings, forms a background for Karen Gottschall '64. Below, another '64 class member, Robert Cusimano, ponders the message of the plaque laid Nov. 2, 1952, proclaiming San Jose High School to be dedicated to truth, liberty, and toleration, as the school enters its second century of service.

THEY PASSED THIS WAY

A substantial number of compliments, commendations, and trophies have been collected in the past century by San Jose High School and its students. How successful has the school been in its role of educating the students? To a large extent the school must stand or fall on this count in the reflected glory of its students, although no educational institution can guarantee the penetration of the human skull with 100 per cent accuracy.

Whether in the spectacular scientific feats of space technology or in the day-to-day practice of responsible citizenship, family cooperation, and human decency, to what extent have the former students remembered their lessons? Have the teachers succeeded in communicating to their young charges the technical proficiency, mutually tempered idealism and realism, morality and humanity which each instructor strives to impart?

In the left and right hand margins of the pages of Book I of this volume, the historical section of the "Centennial Bell," are listed 20,866 names of graduates of San Jose High. This prodigious list includes June graduates of the classes of 1873 through 1962, including 88 classes. From 1902 through 1951, a total of 50 midyear classes were graduated in January or February. Those graduated on Thursday, June 13, 1963, at the 139th Commencement Exercises are pictured in Book II.

From the founding of the secondary education program in 1863-64 until May 30, 1873, no commencement exercises were held; nor were any graduation diplomas or certificiates awarded. No reason is known. It simply was not the practice.

However, on that 1873 date, the first graduating exercises were held. The site is not recorded on the program reproduced on the facing page, on which the eight graduates are starred. Nineteen more graduated the following year. However, no graduation was held in 1875 or 1877. No reason is known, but the fact is verified by the statement on the program of the 1879 commencement that this was the fifth such program in history.

GOVERNMENT

To what extent does a man or woman "succeed" in life? Certainly one who earns the confidence of the majority of his interested voting fellow-citizens of a growing state can be termed a success. Such a man was Clarence Clement (C.C.) Young, graduate of 1885 and governor from Jan. 4, 1927 to Jan 6, 1931. Also an educator, he graduated from the University of California in 1892, and taught Latin and English at Lowell High School in San Francisco for 14 years, from 1892 to 1906, heading the English department.

Mr. Young entered the real estate business in 1906 in Berkeley, and was elected to the Assembly for the 1909 through 1917 sessions, serving as speaker in 1913, 1915, and 1917. A delegate to the 1912 Republican National Convention, he was a presidential elector and chairman of the California electoral board in 1920. He served two terms as lieutenant governor, from 1919 to 1927, before becoming governor.

Honorable Clarence C. Young

A TRADITION set long ago and still carried out, is that each edition of the Bell be dedicated to some eminent and noteworthy man or woman, who, at one time either graduated from or has been associated with San Jose High School.

The 1931 book is therefore dedicated to the Honorable Clarence C. Young, ex-Governor of California, a man who has been prominent not only in the political, but also in the professional world.

Another San Jose graduate, this one in appointive career service rather than elective office, is Mr. Julius Klein, pictured above in the 1929 "Bell" which was dedicated to him. A graduate of the class of 1903, he at once earned membership in the scholastic elite of the Phi Beta Kappa chapter at the University of California, Berkeley. By 1906 he was employed by the government of Mexico to write an official history of that nation. He later became director of the United State Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and assistant secretary of commerce. Still later he became a consultant to various foreign governments in their international political and economic relations.

In 1907, when Mr. Klein was writing the history of Mexico, another graduate, Mr. B. Stuart Crow, was taking office as district attorney of Nez Perce County, Idaho.

Many other graduates or former students have held positions in law enforcement. Currently, Mr. Ray Blackmore is San Jose police chief and Mr. Bart Collins is chief of detectives. An assistant chief, in the fire department before his retirement, was Joseph Carter.

Mr. Chauncey Tramutola, '08, became assistant United States attorney general. A current federal official is Mr. Theodore C. Achilles, '26, assistant undersecretary of state, who served briefly as a reporter in San Jose and rose through the ranks of diplomatic negotiations and posts. The San Francisco "Chronicle" weekly magazine, "This World," last year quoted him as declaring, "It is not enough merely to be against something . . . we must be positive and dynamic. We must get on with the job of helping to shape the kind of world we would want to see if Marxist-Leninism had never existed." (See photos on page 40).

A federally appointed official is San Jose's postmaster, Mr. William Lawrence, '38. A professional administrator is Mr. Howard Campen, Santa Clara County executive, whose official duties cover the activities of one of the fastest growing counties in the United States, with respect to both population and economic activity.

Senator Herbert C. Jones, shown above as he appears today and in lower left as he appeared in the 1924 state legislative handbook, the "California Blue Book," can be described as the dean of San Jose High's graduates who became elected officials. Indeed, he holds to this day the record of having served longer in the California State Senate — 22 years — than any man in the state's 113-year history.

A central figure in the organization and promotion of the San Jose High School centennial observance, Senator (as all former senators are always called) Jones graduated in 1898. He studied law at Stanford and Stanford Law School and started his practice in San Jose in 1905 as a partner of Mr. Samuel Tompkins. He was elected to the State Senate in 1912, at the age of 29, when Hiram Johnson was governor. His term continued under the governorship of Mr. William D. Stephens, Mr. Friend W. Richardson, fellow San Jose High School graduate Mr. C. C. Young, Mr. James Rolph Jr., and Mr. Frank F. Merriam.

Mr. Jones was born in Oskaloose, Iowa, and attended Hester Grammar School in San Jose before coming to San Jose High School. An ardent hiker and gardener, he is the father of two daughters. Even today he continues to practice law and serves on a governor's advisory committee concerned with Agnews State Hospital.

Many issues have had his attention over the years; perhaps chief among them is water. He was a champion of California's Central Valley Water Project and served the Santa Clara County Water Conservation District as attorney for more than 30 years.

He has also been active in matters of education, conservation, agriculture, respect for law, and honesty in business. He headed a State Senate committee on alleged price fixing by cement interests.

In the business world he has has been director of many firms and in 1927 was president of the State League of Building and Loan Associations.

A substantial number of graduates of San Jose High went into the practice of law. Some have said their interest was prompted by discussions in high school classes. What may be termed a surprising number also went on to become judges.

Today on the Santa Clara County Superior Court bench sit five graduates of San Jose High. They are, in order of graduation, Judge John D. Foley, '25; Judge Marshall Hall, Jan. '27; Judge Robert E. Cassin, Feb. '28; Judge Albert F. DeMarco, '31; and Judge Peter Anello, Jan. '36.

A January, 1927, classmate of Judge Hall, who also became a judge, is Judge James Scoppettone, who won appointment as Santa Cruz municipal judge. His class poem, recalled in 1959 by a "Mercury" writer, read, in part, "We're on the golden Ship of Youth outbound; The fading landscape passes from our sight." Others who became judges are Judge Wayne Kanemoto, Judge Raymond Callahan, Judge Grandin Miller, and Judge Martin Rothenberg.

Others who went into law include U.S. Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, Congressman Don Edwards, State Sen. Clark Bradley, Mr. Hugh Center, Mr. Chesley M. Douglas, Mr. Irvin Frasse, Mr. Fred Gray, '96; Mr. Kenneth Malovos, '26; Sen. Herbert C. Jones, '98; Mr. Kenneth M. Johnson, Mr. Victor Kappa, Mr. Grandin Miller, Mr. Harvey Miller, Mr. Chauncey Tramutola, and Mr. Fred Wool.

COUNTY GOVERNMENT

Current officials of Santa Clara County government who either graduated from or at one time attended San Jose High School are pictured here.

Ralph Mehrkens
Chairman, Board of Supervisors

Howard Campen
County Executive

Ed Levin
Superviso

Sam Della Maggiore
Supervisor

Mrs. Jean Pullan
Board Clerk

Among former board supervisors is Wes Hubbard, lumber firm official. Among current county employes is Clayton A. Anderson, '29, in the office of County Assessor George B. Noll. Many other graduates have held county positions.

San Jose City Council current members who participated in the signing of proclamation of San Jose High School Centennial Week in May by Mayor Robert Welch and who attended San Jose High are, left to right, Mr. Robert C. Doerr, Mr. Louis S. Solari, and Mr. Clyde Fischer.

Participation in local affairs has been a hallmark of many San Jose High School graduates. This participation has sometimes led to political work and election to public office. Three current San Jose City Council members are former San Jose Highans. They are Mr. Robert C. Doerr, Jan. '32, Mr. Louis Solari, '21, and Mr. Clyde L. Fischer. Mr. Doerr is a political science instructor at San Jose City College, and this summer went to Brussels, Belgium, in his role as a national representative in the people-to-people cultural exchange program. Mr. Solari is in the real estate and insurance business. Mr. Fischer is an operator of the Darlin-Fischer Garden Chapel. His distinction as the first San Jose High School student to enter the service in World War I is chronicled in the subsequent military service section of this volume.

San Jose-Milpitas-Alviso Municipal Court judges who are San Jose High graduates are, left, Grandin H. Miller, '15, and Judge Wayne M. Kanemoto, '36.

Mr. Samuel M. Shortridge, '79, was valedictory speaker, and won national fame as an orator in the U.S. Senate.

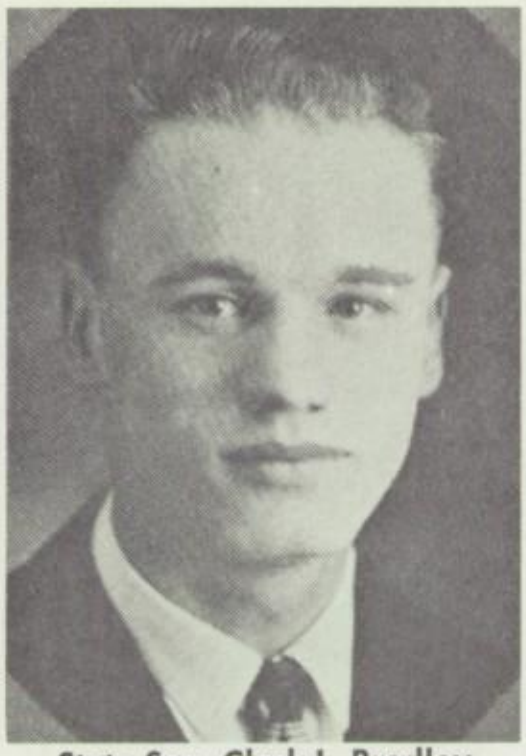
"The cares of the world rest lightly upon his shoulders," reads the caption beside this photo of Mr. Theodore C. Achilles in the 1922 "Bell." Now a State Department official, his story is told on page 35.

Humble beginnings characterize the stories of a remarkable number of San Jose High School students who went on to hold positions of leadership and responsibility.

Such a "Horatio Alger" saga is the career of Mr. Samuel Morgan Shortridge, who served as U.S. Senator for two terms from March 4, 1921, to March 4, 1933. Born in Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, Aug. 3, 1861, the son of a minister, he and his brother, Charles Shortridge, also a San Jose Highan, who won fame in the journalistic world, moved to Oregon with the rest of the family in 1874. Young Samuel took a job as a blacksmith's helper but then decided to become a lawyer. So he entered East School in Salem, Ore., to begin his high school studies and, while in school, worked as a school janitor from 4 to 8 a.m. and after class each day.

After moving to San Jose in 1875 with his family, he enrolled in San Jose High School and sought work to help support himself and the rest of the family. He wrapped and addressed bundles of newspapers and, like his brother, lit the gas lamps along the streets of the city each night and put them out each morning. A biographical sketch recounts that an economy-minded mayor scolded him once for turning the lamps on too early.

After graduation, at the fifth commencement exercises in the California Theater at which he delivered the valedictory, he continued his study of law while first becoming a teacher and then a principal in Napa County. Having saved some money, he resigned to continue formal studies of law in San Francisco and took the state bar examination in 1884, passing it in good shape.



State Sen. Clark L. Bradley

He was counsel in many important cases. In the famous graft case in San Francisco in 1908 he was chief counsel for the defendant, Mr. Abraham Ruef. The government's attorney was suddenly taken ill and Mr. Hirman Johnson took over to defeat Mr. Shortridge and win the case. Mr. Johnson, and Mr. Shortridge later were the two U.S. Senators from California at the same time.

Active in Republican politics, Mr. Shortridge was a presidential elector three times, voting for Benjamin Harrison in 1888, William McKinley in 1900, and William Howard Taft in 1908. He later described himself as a "100 per cent Republican.' His most famous oratory, of the many speeches which won for him the title of "The Silver Tongued Orator of the Pacific," was his tribute to the first Republican chief executive, President Lincoln, delivered on the steps of Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C., on Feb. 12, 1929, the 120th anniversary of the birth of the "Great Emancipator." The lengthy and eloquent oration, published in full in the "Congressional Record" the next day and quoted at length in various newspapers, described Mr. Lincoln as a man who "came unheralded out of the west (and who) combined in one soul the simplicity of a child, the wisdom of a sage, and the foresight of a prophet." His voice was also heard on public occasions in San Jose at times. For example, he delivered an address at the commencement exercises on June 20, 1899, in the Victory Theater.

U.S. Rep. Don Edwards

He helped his brother financially in the publication of the San Jose "Mercury-Herald" for about 25 years as his fortune as a lawyer grew. By 1906 he had moved to Atherton, where he made his home the rest of his life when not in Washington, D.C. The father of two sons, he was an ardent fisherman, using grasshoppers as bait and outcatching those using elaborate outfits and flies.

On his third day in the U.S. Senate ,he was introduced and given the gavel to preside over that body, in recognition of his reputation as an orator, by the then Vice President Calvin Coolidge. In the Senate he favored Asiatic exclusion and a protective tariff and opposed U.S. entry into the League of Nations. He once told a reporter he especially wanted to be remembered for urging independence for the Philippine Islands.

JACK Z. ANDERSON

A mark of the measure of the man is found in the glowing letter from his good friend, former U.S. Senator Henry F. Ashhurst of Arizona, as Sen. Shortridge lay dying at the age of 90. "You have lived a life filled with jewels of good deeds and devoted to art, literature, and science." He was, Sen. Ashhurst continued, one who had never done anyone an injustice. He died Jan. 15, 1952, and lies buried in Oak Hill cemetery in San Jose.

Another San Jose graduate who has won political honor is Clark L. Bradley, now state senator. (See photo on preceding page. Born in Topeka, Kan., he came to San Jose when about 10 years old.

Sen. Bradley, born July 18, 1908, attended Lowell School, San Jose High, and San Jose State College, and took his law degree at Hastings Law College in 1938 and served until 1942 when he started three years of naval service as an officer in World War II. He was again elected to the council in 1948, continuing until 1952, including a term as mayor of San Jose from 1950 to 1952. Active in service clubs, he was Kiwanis president and has also supported Red Cross and Boy Scout work.

First elected to the State Assembly in 1953, he was re-elected four successive times. In 1961, on the retirement of State Sen. John F. (Jack) Thompson, at right below, Mr. Bradley, a Republican, was elected to the State Senate.

An actor and debater in high school, he played in "Macbeth" in the school's sixth annual Shakespearean festival in 1926 and won a debating award pin the same year, graduating that June. He started his law practice in 1931. He and his wife, Carol, have four children.

Sen. Thompson, born in Cupertino in 1896, is another public official who attended the San Jose school system. A San Jose realtor and Evergreen farmer, with two children, he was elected to the State Assembly in 1942, serving from 1943 to 1950. In 1950 he was elected to the State Senate, serving until he retired in 1962. He was in the Merchant Marine in World War I. This summer Mr. Harry Farrell, San Jose High graduate and political writer, suggested that Sen. Thompson, a Republican, might take up his political life again.

Current congressman representing the Ninth Congressional District, which includes San Jose High School, in the U.S. House of Representatives is the Hon. Don Edwards, a graduate of June, '32, and president of his graduating class. He was born on South 12th St. in San Jose Jan. 6, 1915. (See photo on preceding page.) He studied law at Stanford and Stanford Law School, and was admitted to the State Bar in 1940. He then became a special agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and, during World War II, was a Naval Intelligence officer and gunnery officer at sea.

JOHN F. "JACK" THOMPSON
TWENTY-NINTH DISTRICT

Congressman Edwards, a Democrat, was elected to the 88th Congress on Nov. 6, 1962. He is, he notes, San Jose's first congressman in about 30 years. His predecessor, who now serves the Tenth District, and who represented San Jose High's district and interests from 1953 until the redistricting in 1962, is the Hon. Charles S. Gubser, Gilroy Republican.

A former congressman, now retired from public life, who also attended San Jose High School, Mr. Jack Z. Anderson, was born in Oakland on March 22, 1904. He grew up on a Trimble Road ranch and attended Hester Grammar School. In the fourth grade he spoke at the school's cornerstone laying. He picked prunes for seven cents a box and earned $4 a week working after school for a San Jose drug store. He was first president of his Boys' Club.

Now retired at his ranch at San Juan Bautista, he is the father of three daughters. He was elected to Congress in 1938 and served through 1952 in the 76th through the 82nd Congresses. In 1955-56 he was special assistant to the secretary of agriculture under President Dwight Eisenhower, and in 1956 became administrative assistant to President Eisenhower, handling agriculture legislation and other duties.

Congressman Anderson served on the House Naval Affairs Committee and is particularly proud of having answered most of the roll call votes during his years in office. Often a participant in spirited debate, he is credited with saving uncounted millions of dollars, perhaps ultimately billions, through sponsoring use of a single catalogue from which all military and other government agencies might buy supplies such as hardware. This device eliminated much duplication and standardized parts and prices.

On a local level, another San Jose elective official besides City Council members pictured on page 39 is Mrs. Jean France Morss, '38, elected auditor and appointed to fill the vacant city treasurer's office as of July 1 of this year.

ALUMNI IN EDUCATION

Perhaps inspired by their own experience at San Jose High School, many graduates have themselves gone into education. Among them is the woman believed today to be the oldest living graduate of San Jose High School. She is Mrs. Eva (Evabelle) Bennell Morrison, shown above and second from the left in the second row in the photo below of the Santa Clara Street School faculty.

She graduated May 27, 1885, with a grade average of 98 of a possible 100. Her oration was entitled "The Rank and File." The ceremony was in the Baptist Tabernacle. She completed the three-year course at San Jose Normal in two years, graduating in May, 1887. She taught a few months in the Alviso primary grades and then resigned effective Dec. 1, 1887, to join the Santa Clara Street School (later Horace Mann) faculty. She resigned in 1895 to marry George Morrison, started substituting in 1902, and taught at Grant and Horace Mann from 1908 to 1938.

A most distinguished son of San Jose High School was Mr. Walter L. Bachrodt, '07, pictured above. He served as superintendent of schools of the San Jose Unified School District from May 26, 1921, until his death on April 20, 1945.

Born April 22, 1890, in Des Moines, Ia., he moved to San Jose in 1892. After graduating from San Jose High and San Jose Normal School, he taught in elementary schools in Fresno County. He served in the armed forces in World War I. His A.B. and M.A. degrees were earned from Stanford University. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honor society, he was active in many community projects and earned the City Council's award of merit in 1942.

Besides his leadership of the school system, he was a Y.M.C.A. board member, director of Rotary and Boy Scouts, on the executive committee of the Santa Clara County Fair Association and the board of the Visiting Nurse Association. A member of San Jose Lodge No. 10, F.&A.M., and San Jose Commandery No. 10, Knights Templar, and American Legion Post 89, he was president of the Bay Section of California Teachers Association and California Association of Public School Superintendents, chairman of the San Jose Council for Service and Employment of Veterans, United Conference of Christians and Jews, and 1941 American Red Cross Roll Call, and a member of the State Educational Council. He headed the county Emergency Labor Committee, San Jose Third War Loan Drive, County Boy Scout Council, Community Chest, and County Tuberculosis Association.

Honoring his memory at San Jose High School are two awards. The Walter L. Bachrodt Athletic Award, a trophy cup, goes to the senior boy selected as having the outstanding qualifications of scholarship, citizenship, and athletic ability. It is, the student handbook reads, "the highest award given to an athlete at San Jose High School."

The Walter Bachrodt Memorial scholarship, established in 1945 by the San Jose Teacher's Association, is a $125 award given to a San Jose State College student going into teaching.

Mr. Andrew Hill Jr., who graduated in '06, also became a superintendent of schools, in Stockton. Mr. William C. Henley, Jan. '27, became Campbell Elementary School District superintendent, a post which he still occupies.

Others of prominence include Mr. Henry Suzzalo, '93, president, University of Washington, who once sold fruit from his father's pushcart on San Jose streets; Mr. Henry Chandler, '96, assistant to the president of Cornell University, and Prof. George Ebey, Feb. '24, Chico State College.

Jack L. Anderson

Two other graduates became county superintendents of schools. Mr. C. R. Timpany, '19, now holds that post in Santa Clara County, while Mr. James R. Tormey, Jan. '27, became head of the San Mateo County schools department. Norman Waldorf, '26, became a director of the San Jose Unified School District adult education program, which has won national repute as an outstanding program.

Mr. Jack L. Anderson, '26, shown at left, is director of the San Jose Vocational Center, located at the City College campus. He began teaching at the San Jose Technical High School, on the 1908 campus, in 1937, and became principal in 1943. The program moved to its present location in 1952 and became a separate vocational center in 1956, with Mr. Anderson as director.

Physical education and coaching have attracted San Jose High graduates. Two prominent figures at Stanford University, described in the sports section of this volume, are Mr. Chuck Taylor, newly named athletic director there, and his associate, Mr. Pete Kmetovic, both '38 grads. Mr. Henry Schmidt, '22, well-loved trainer at Santa Clara University, also has been associated with the San Francisco 49ers for many years. Mr. Lincoln Kimura, San Jose State trainer since 1945, is now 49ers head trainer. Mr. DeWitt Portal, Jan. '27, won national fame as San Jose State boxing coach. Accidentally killed in a tractor mishap at his ranch in 1953, a class scholarship honors his memory. Mr. Don Taylor is coach at Lick High School in east San Jose, and Mr. Frank Covell is vice principal, dean of boys, and director of athletics and student activities at Lincoln High School in San Jose.

Elmer Stewart

Two outstanding students in quite different fields who graduated from San High School are Mr. Paul Eschstruth, shown below, who in 1957 became the school's first National Merit Scholarship winner, and Mr. Ric Trimillos, who graduated in music at San Jose State with departmental honors and is now at the University of Hawaii on a federal grant. Mr. Eschstruth, Phi Beta Kappa, did graduate work in science and mathematics at Stanford and is now doing advanced work at Princeton

THE TEACHING BUCHSERS

Most famous family name in Santa Clara County education is that of the Buchsers. The parents came to San Jose from Europe and reared eight brothers and sisters, all born in San Jose and graduated from San Jose High School, who went into teaching.

The eldest, Mary, now deceased, was teacher and later principal of Pioneer elementary school and teacher at Hawthorne. Emil, for whom a Santa Clara high school is named, was principal and became superintendent of the Santa Clara schools. Anna was principal of Lincoln Glen and Lincoln elementary schools. H. R. (Bob) was principal of Willow Glen elementary and high schools, and since 1954 has been president of San Jose City College. Emma taught, as did Genevieve, Lloyd (now Roosevelt Junior High principal), and the youngest, Dorothy.

When Amanda Rogers graduated in 1874 (her diploma is pictured above), San Jose High was still young. It was still young too when the 1879 class, pictured below, was graduated. They are, row 1 (bottom) left to right: Will Gaston, Jennie Kirkpatrick, Susie Cottle, Frank Wilcox; Row 2: Frank Bryant, Lily Schoen, Julia Carter, Sam Shortridge, John January; Row 3: Carrie Russell Fowler, Nellie Howes, Joe Johnson, Lily Blackford, Ellen (Nellie) Keaton.

Not so young today, San Jose High continues to help prepare her own students to insure the continuity of education. Mr. Robert Doerr, '42, teaches at San Jose City College. Dr. Bruce M. Eberhart, '45, heads the biology department at the University of North Carolina campus at Greensboro. Mr. George House is Lick High School principal. They and others help assure that our nation's roots will be broad and deep.

Mr. Harry Farrell, above, and Mr. Wesley Peyton, below, were classmates at San Jose High, along with Mr. Wesley Mathis, below on page at right. Today all three work on staff of the San Jose Mercury-News. Photos are from the 1942 yearbook.

ALUMNI IN JOURNALISM

A respect for the accurate printed word, inculcated during school years, became transformed into a love for printers' ink in the hearts of a substantial number of San Jose High School students. Sometimes it was a mere infatuation, which led to a few years in the field of journalism. For others it was the real thing, a lifelong wedding to the job of spreading the word of what's news.

Perhaps it was born in an after-school session working for the "Herald" outside of class, or for the "Bell." In any event, somewhere in the careers of a surprising number of graduates can be found some contact with the varied branches of journalism.

One of the earliest, and most famous, was Mr. Charles M. Shortridge. The story of his brother, U.S. Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, has already been told in these pages. Born Aug. 24, 1857, in Pleasant Grove, near Mt. Pleasant, Ia., young Charles earned $28 a month while in school by lighting street lamps in San Jose. While in high school, he decided to become a journalist, and he went to work for seven years at the "Daily Mercury," learning all phases of the work and business. In 1883 he resigned, still almost penniless, and vowed not to return until he owned the "Mercury."

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

S.J. Hi Grads Top Athletes

By LOUIS DUINO • Sports Editor

He went energetically into real estate and insurance,. raised $5,500 to buy the daily "Times" that same year, and by the following year had bought controlling stock in the Mercury Printing and Publishing Co. He combined the "Mercury" and the "Times," and in 1885 absorbed the "Republic." An ardent Republican and a protectionist, he later was invited to become publisher of the San Francisco "Call" on the strength of his journalistic reputation. Professionally, but not financially, he was successful as "Call" publisher. He was state senator from 1899 to 1906.

In 1908 Buel Anderson, an alumnus, was "Mercury" city editor. Later John Brokenshire held the same post, later to become City College extended day division dean. Merle Gray was an '06 staff member, as were Burdett Sanders and Frank Hill. William Hines was '08 "Times" city editor, and Hans Lorsenson worked for him.

Today the "Mercury" staff includes Mr. Harry Farrell, '42, politcal writer; Mr. Wesley Mathis, '42, sports writer; Mr. Wesley Peyton, who finished his last year at Lincoln High, editorial page editor; Mr. Phil Watson, '26, courthouse reporter; Louis Duino, '26, sports editor; Mr. Mike Conversa and Mr. Rocky Santoro, photographers; Mr. Ray Rhodes, general manager of both papers. On the "News" Mr. Frank Bonanno is telegraph editor. The late Mr. Frank Sauliere, '25, was a "News" reporter for 17 years. (See photo, page 57). Mr. Stan Waldorf, '24, was city editor of the old "News," and later worked for the San Francisco "Examiner." In Palo Alto Mr. John Keplinger, '53, is a "Times" reporter. Mr. Joe Anello is operating the weekly Campbell "Press."

Bunshiro Ito

A distinguished architect, Bunshiro Ito, Feb. '10, now living in Tokyo, won the Medal of the Yellow Ribbon of the Japanese government and was honored at an audience with the Emperor of Japan.

Turning from professions to entertainment, a whole chapter could be written on the story of Mr. Jesse Lasky, motion picture pioneer, who with Mr. Samuel Goldwyn and Mr. Cecil B. DeMille made the first full-length feature film, "The Squaw Man," in 1914. Born in San Francisco Sept. 13, 1880, Mr. Lasky attended Horace Mann and San Jose High, playing cornet in the school orchestra. He watched his father's sidewalk display of shoes outside the Boston Shoe Bazaar at First and San Fernando on Saturday nights, and later played in a theater orchestra.

Mr. Lasky, who tells his own story in the book, "I Blow My Own Horn," was honored on a "This Is Your Life" television program in 1957 when he established the annual Lasky Award, a medal to each year's San Jose High School trumpet player. He last visited San Jose that year, conducting the U.S. Navy Band in a scholarship benefit, and died Jan. 13, 1958.

Jesse L. Lasky

Irene Dalis, Metropolitan Opera mezzo soprano, is shown here as she appeared in '42 "Bell" yearbook. She studied at San Jose State, Columbia, and Verdi Conservatory, Milan, Italy.

Others in the entertainment field include Miss Roberta Browne, a Ziegfield Follies and Bimbo's 365 Club showgirl and one of the "Copa" girls by 1958; Mr. David Caldwell, San Francisco television producer; Mr. Frank Dean, Jan. '27, Wild West Shows trick rider; Mr. Joe Juliano, '42, stage producer; Mr. Edmund Lowe, actor, now 73; Mr. Will Owen, Stanford actor in '14; and Mr. Granville Scofield, '41, also known as Jeff York, who played "Mike Fink" in "Davy Crockett." Movie actress Fran Marcus also attended San Jose High.

In the musical world, Miss Irene (Yvonne Patricia) Dalis, '42, has sung with the Metropolitan Opera and other opera companies. Mr. Frank Triena, '31, became San Francisco Symphony violinist. Mr. Frank Lacey wrote "Most Happy Fella" and collaborated with Mr. Meredith Wilson on "Music Man."

Admittedly all too incomplete is our list of the medical and dental alumni — Dr. Fay Adams, first woman doctor in the U.S. Army; Dr. Tokio Ishikawa, San Jose State; Dr. Emmett Henderson, Dr. Paul Morton, Dr. Albert K. Mineta; Dr. Mary Hughet Lovelace, acclaimed at the University of Colorado as best allergist in the nation; Dr. Richard Bigotti, Jan. '27; Dr. Harold Chope, head of San Mateo County health department; Dr. Harry Craycroft, '97, of Fresno; Dr. Ephraim Engleman, Jan. '27, once theater band leader, now director of the Univerversity of California Rheumatic Disease Group at the U.C. Medical Center, San Francisco; Dr. Robert A. Loehr; Dr. Edward McMurray, '95, of Centerville; Dr. Vinton S. Matthews, who holds the rank of colonel and commands a National Guard tank battalion; Dr. Harold Y. Randle, '34; Dr. Stanley Skillicorn, '39; Dr. C. H. Schultz, '01, San Francisco; dentists, Dr. Leighton C. Brownton, '03; Dr. James Chan, '36; Dr. Herbert Graham, '97, Oroville; Dr. Carl Showalter, Jan. '27, Aptos; and Dr. Arthur Sontheimer, '06.

Mr. Fred Kmetovic, above, and Mr. Don Goldeen, below, are prominent San Jose businessmen.

BUSINESS, INDUSTRY

James E. Shelton

A former head of Matson Navigation Co. is Mr. Charles Brown.

Mr. Henry Coe became a major cattleman. The Wool Brothers, pictured at left, prominent Bulldog athletes, operate a cannery. The Wool family is believed to have provided more San Jose High graduates than any other single family — 18 since Beatrice graduated in 1907. Mr. F. J. Niederauer, '29, runs Western Appliance. Mr. Kenward S. Oliphant, '39, is a consulting engineer.

Mr. Jack B. Anderson, '29, pictured at right, is owner of Globe Printing Co. which currently prints the "Herald." Mr. Wes Hubbard, former county supervisor, operates a lumber firm. Mr. James Lewis, '57, overcame a physical handicap to win admiration as "National Goodwill Worker of the Year" for 1962. Mr. Chandler Tripp, '34, book and gift store owner, stricken with polio, showed bravery which inspired a school for handicapped children to honor his memory when he died in 1949.

Mr. Russell Davis, '25, is a Shell Oil Co. executive in San Francisco today. Mr. Harold Durst, '06, became a miner in Tonopah. Mr. Alfred Dow, '94, managed a Honolulu hardware store. Mr. Don Edwards, '32, founded the Valley Title Co. Mr. James Ferguson, '34, owns the Ferguson Music House. Mr. Fred Hilton, '21, is a title company official. Another graduate was Mr. Jo Emmett Jennings of Jennings Radio Mfg. Corp.

Mr. Roy Butcher, at left, an electrical contractor, is a current member of the San Jose Unified School District board. Another San Jose High graduate, Mr. Harvey Miller, an attorney, formerly served on the school board.

Miss Kara Loupe, savings and loan association official, won a "distinguished citizen" award for her civic activities. Mr. Marsden Edward Lordge, '40, is a local office manager and accountant.

Mr. James L. Budros, '34, shown at right as he apeared in that year's "Bell," is director of personnel development and compensation for General Dynamics. He spent over 30 years in industrial relations with the firm, after doing graduate work at Stanford University Graduate School of Business.

Mr. George L. Honore Jr., pictured at left, is president of the San Jose Steel Company. Mr. Howard Nelson, '28, operates Travel Advisors, Inc. Mr. Andrew Malovos, '27, is an investment counselor. Mr. Leland C. Adams, Feb. '16 class president, is a manufacturer's representative. Miss Katherine O'Bannon is a buyer for Hart's. Mr. Neil Petree, Barker Bros. manager, headed the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Ed Piantos, '45, operates a delicatessen.

Mr. Ernest Renzel Jr., '25, wholesale food distributor, was San Jose mayor in 1944-46. Three of his five children have gone on to Stanford University from San Jose High. A current councilman, Louis S. Solari, is a realtor. Wil Rose founded Data International, to name a few graduates in the business world.

BY THE RAMPARTS WE HAVE WATCHED

The former San Jose Highan pictured above in the 1918 "Bell" took delight in reliving his days at the school through the pages of the yearbook as he rested between battles in France during the last days of World War I.

The military tradition of preparedness was deeply ingrained in the mind of San Jose High School, born in the midst of the agonizing War Between the States. Not a few youngsters who otherwise would have tramped up the stairs of the first high school instead formed the columns marching across Arizona to join the Union Army. Some also returned south to aid their former neighbors of the Confederacy's Gray in battling the Union Blue, sometimes fighting their new California neighbors who were pro-Union in their sympathies.

SAN JOSE HIGH'S BOMBER

On the preceding page, a Roll of Honor lists those San Jose High School students and alumni whose names are listed in "Bell" and "Herald" and other records as having died in the service of their country in World Wars I and II and in Korea. No information is available on students who left for the Civil War or the Spanish-American War, nor is it known if any former San Jose Highans have lost their lives in the many unsung Cold War battlefields of recent years in southeast Asia or elsewhere.

While their fellow students were overseas in World War II, Highans pitched in to "buy a bomber," led by student chairman John Popovich, in December, 1942. The campaign, launched at a Tuesday night rally in the Civic Auditorium Dec. 28, raised $252,250 within a month, enough for the medium B-25 bomber shown above and another $77,250 for a P.T. Motor Torpedo boat like the one on which President John F. Kennedy served.

Early in World War I ,teachers and students bought $76,611.95 in bonds and stamps and contributed $3,324.30 and hours of time to the Red Cross and war relief and preparation of clothing for the services. Victory gardens were raised and other volunteer work was done, a typewritten report now in the "Bell" historical files testifies.

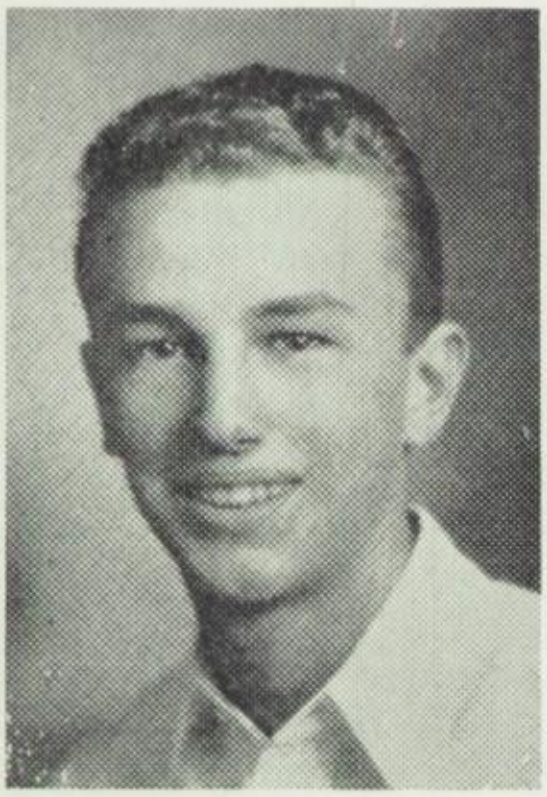
"Herald" writers, now on the San Jose "Mercury" staff, reported defense measures at outset of World War II.



Col. Howard H. Withycombe, shown at left in 1934 graduation yearbook, today is Chief of Staff of the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo. The son of H. Fred Withycombe, native of San Jose and businessman who died in 1953, Col. Withycombe's school has 2,500 cadet students and an 18,000-acre campus.

Youngest serviceman in World War I was the late Frank Sauliere, San Jose "News" reporter and 1925 grad, at right, who enlisted and became an interpreter in France at the age of 12½. He returned to complete studies after the war. Clyde Fischer, now San Jose City Councilman, was the first student to leave the Bulldog campus for war service. Many others have served, in war and in peace, in reserve, guard, and active forces. Lt.-Col. Merwyn Hunt, '35, holds DFC and a Pentagon Air Force post. Staff Sgt. William J. Indeveri, '49, is Air Force recruiter today in San Jose.

STAR ATHLETES:

All-American, Chuck Taylor

Who are San Jose High's greatest athletes? Athletic fame is rare on the high school level, usually requiring the physical maturity and training and experience more characteristic of college or university students. However, the question brought many answers from his readers when posed this centennial year by Mr. Louis Duino, himself a San Jose High graduate of '26, now sports editor of the San Jose "Mercury."

The same question was asked by Mr. Walt Gamage, sports editor of the Palo Alto "Times," in 1950, and both Mr. Duino and Mr. Gamage, in answers 13 years apart, received many times two of the same answers: Pete Kmetovic and Chuck Taylor.

Kmetovic ranked No. 1 in the poll published April 5, 1950. Both track and football were his strong fields, and the combination made him a great running player. His quick change of pace, his "high gear" which pulled him away from opponents are still well remembered. Taylor was a strong blocking back, and both played on the championship '37 team, graduating in June '38. Their later sports careers are chronicled here.

Who else was on the 1950 list? No. 3 was Bob Ingram '40, for track; then came Marvin Owen of the '24 baseball team, Cecil Disbrow, '25 in football and basketball, Bud Mortenson '42 in track, Ralph Romero '43 in baseball and basketball, triple threat Jack Wool '27 in football, basketball, and track; Henry Schmidt '22 in track and football, and Buddy Leitch '23, later a sports editor, in baseball.

Taylor and Kmetovic — those names have gone together through the years in Stanford as well as San Jose High history. Both became top athletes enshrined in Stanford's all-time hall of fame. Both also played professional football.

At San Jose High Taylor was the football team captain that memorable fall of '37, and was named to the P.A.L. team. Kmetovic matched Henry Schmidt's fleet 10-second hundred yard dash and seemed to match that speed as a gridiron halfback. Taylor won three high school football letters and one in track.

Coach Walt Williams introduced Taylor to football in his sophomore year, and spoke often and admiringly of Stanford. Chuck had a widowed mother to support that fall of '38. He hitchhiked to Palo Alto to enroll, Rube Samuelson reports in a "Sporting News" biography. He earned meals by hashing at Encino Hall, a men's dormitory, and collected laundry to pay for his lodgings. He made the Stanford frosh team as quarterback so an athletic scholarship took care of tuition. In his sophomore year he became guard in Coach Clark Shaugnessy's T-formation. He also represented a milk firm and a biscuit company and worked part time in a men's clothing store, making a total of $175 a month.

New Year's Day, 1941, found Shaugnessy's Cinderella team, the "Wow Boys," locked in Rose Bowl combat with Nebraska. Kmetovic was the man in motion from the T-formation. The score was tied, 13-all. Taylor, all-coast the previous year, was guard. Left halfback Kmetovic took the ball on a punt and returned it 39 yards to put Stanford on top; final tally—21-13.

The dates and teams since then are many. Taylor graduated All-American guard in '43; three years in the Navy (directing the landing unscratched of an LCT—landing craft tank—on Normany beach June 6, 1944); playing pro football in '46 for Miami Seahawks; coaching undefeated frosh Stanford teams, '47-'49; '50, line coach for the '49ers; '51, named head coach at Stanford; then assistant athletic director, and, this summer, athletic director at Stanford.

As for Kmetovic: Navy, April '42—Oct. '45, quarterback for the Great Lakes squad; A.B. degree at Stanford, '46; pro halfback for Philadelphia Eagles, '46, and Detroit Lions, '47; also backfield coach at Friend's Central Prep, Philadelphia, '46; M.A. degree, Stanford, '48; grid coach, San Bernardino Valley College, '48; Stanford rugby coach, '50, and offense grid coach; as of this summer, Taylor's special assistant.

MANY FOOTBALL

San Jose's first American football championship team — 1934.

From about 1900 to the fall of 1918 San Jose High's major fall sport was rugby. In the fall of 1919, the regular American football was introduced to the field.

Up to the fall of 1943, San Jose's main sports interest was focused on beating Palo Alto or Santa Clara. One source of arch-rivalry between Santa Clara and San Jose was the event in 1898 when the Board of Education dismissed L. R. Smith, vice principal, who became principal of Santa Clara High School. Along with him, loyal students walked out of San Jose High and enrolled in Santa Clara. Also, at that time Santa Clara was the only other high school in the area. The emphasis on beating Palo Alto came from the fact that each football season it was considered by the Peninsula Athletic League schools as the team to beat.

In the fall of 1943, on Armistice Day, the annual contest between San Jose and Lincoln began. The next year, and ever since then, the game has been played every Thanksgiving as the Big Bone Game. The past records of these games shows San Jose on the losing end, winning seven, dropping eleven, and tying three.

Records show that San Jose High has had relatively limited success in football. Its first American football championship was in 1934 and its latest was in 1949. However, it has turned out many fine football players.

Among the all-time football greats of San Jose are Cecil Disbrow of the 1923 team, who in that year helped the Purple and White (as the school colors were then) to a second place, losing the championship to Palo Alto by only one point. Jack Wool, after playing his fullback position at high school, enrolled in San Jose State College and took the National Amateur Athletic Union junior pole vault championship without a glass pole.

The championship team of 1936.

PLAYERS TRAINED

The championship team of 1937.

Then came the first American football championship team of 1934, led by Glenn Sinnot, Tom Murphy, Wilbur Gunther, Don Carmoady and Les Silveria. The championship team of 1936 was composed of such greats as Jack Knapp, Irving Butcher, and Lucon Scalotta. The immortal "Cinderella" team of 1937 featured the one-two punch of Pete Kmetovic and Chuck Taylor, with the fine playing of Jim Taylor. Again the spark was ignited by the team of 1940 which placed second, losing only one game, and was led by Bill Stewart, captain Glen Hart, Don Butcher, and Homer Hamlin. Unsuccessful seasons plagued San Jose after 1940, but around 1947, the Bulldog's football spirit was revived with the appearance of a flashy quarterback named Chris Pappas. After he graduated in 1949, the fall team of that year went undefeated and gave San Jose its last football championship to date.

After that championship, the Bulldog gridders at best could only come up with a few second places, but the production of great athletes did not stop. All-leaguer Bill DiCristini played for the Bulldogs in 1953, and is now a physical eudcation coach at San Jose. In 1956 a guard named Jim Keeley graduated and in the football season of that year played on the nationwide East-West high school football game at San Francisco. Next San Jose introduced football to big, burly Jim Cadile. After graduating in 1958, he was drafted by the Chicago Bears in the National Football League. In 1960 came Cass Jackson and Joe Sparaco, who were both instrumental in San Jose's keeping the Bone for five consecutive years before losing it in 1962.

Baseball greats play San Jose varsity.

San Jose High in its baseball history has taken many championships. Through these championships, it has provided baseball with many fine players.

One of the first baseball players to be drafted by the majors after graduating from San Jose was Hal Rhyne, who played for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

In the middle 1920's San Jose High School gave the baseball world a tall, gangling youngster by the name of Marvin Owen. Owen went to Santa Clara University and eventually to the major leagues where he enjoyed an illustrious career with the Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox, and the Chicago White Sox as an infielder. Owen once played in the World Series as a member of the Detroit Tigers.

There were boys like Buddy Leitch and Ray Dwyer, who came out of San Jose, but were not so fortunate as to make the big time, although they played the Coast League.

Others to make the big leagues were Joe Ereno of the Boston Red Sox, Bob Maroka from the New York Yankees, Bob Fontaine of the New York Giants, who is now chief scout on the West Coast for the Pittsburgh Pirates, and, finally, a 1957 graduate of San Jose High, Marvin Mecklenburg, who went to Stanford and is a pitcher for the Minnesota Twins.

Baseball players who were great at San Jose, but who did not play pro ball, were Cy Taylor, Frank Volpi Sr., Warren (Scooter) Scoppetone, Frank Jelincich, Bob Burtis, Tom Okayaki, George Yamoko, Tommy Okigaki, Frank Ichishita, Jim Paul, Ralph Romero, Bud Seeburger, Tony Lamarra, Frank Bonanno, Dick Valencia, and Johnny Minchel.

Hal Rhyne, San Jose's first major leaguer.

BASKETBALL

Through the years, San Jose has had very successful basketball teams. The varsity has had 12 championships and the exponent weights of B, C, and D teams have had a total of 24 championships.

Our first recorded championship was in 1918 when Hal Rhyne led the team. Rhyne was not only a fine basketball player, but was an all-around baseball and rugby player who later played for the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League.

Next was the championship of 1920 which was led by McDowell Cunningham, Edward Spoon, and captain Tom Kelly. In 1922 and 1923, San Jose took two championships. The team was led by Riodan, Adcock, and Miller.

In 1937 Mr. William H. Martin took over the reins of the basketball teams. In his six years of coaching his teams failed only once, in the season of '41-'42, to take a cage title. He guided such players as Abel Rodriques and Sammy Alaimo, who both rose to national cage prominence.

Next came the championship of 1950 led by Vern Wilson, who earned world fame when he represented the United States in the 1952 Olympics as a high jumper.

The team of 1959 tied for the championship and was led by Henry Rapp who won fame at San Jose City College. Finally, the championship team of 1962, which was led by Vince Collins, tied for the league title.

Without the experience gained from lightweight basketball, many of these basketball greats would never have made their cage fame. Some of the greats who were too small to play varsity were Joe Cook, Everette Roseveare, Harry Bryant, Joe Pizzo, and T-Bone Akizuki, who holds many school records in track.

TRACKMEN DISPLAY

San Jose High has taken many track championships. Many great track men have set school records, but many of these have been replaced by even better ones in recent years.

Dear to the heart of San Jose is Henry Schmidt. A 1922 grad, he ran a 10-flat hundred, which was pretty good for a teenager in those days. He coached Santa Clara University to two Sugar Bowl victories and an Orange Bowl championship. He was a line coach for the San Francisco 49er's, and later went back to Santa Clara. He was honored at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco on November 9, 1950, on Henry Schmidt Day.

Another outstanding track man was Louis Duino, the San Jose Mercury sports editor, who also ran a 10-flat hundred.

The 10-flat hundred mark was erased in 1939 when Jim Peterson and Kenneth Taix both ran a 9.8 hundred. Others outstanding in track and field were Bob Ingram, with a mile in 4:32.8, and former Olympic high jumper Vern Wilson, who cleared the bar at 6'6".

In the exponent divisions, Al Dominguez recently broke the 75-yard dash record of 8.0; Frank Herrera ran the 660-yard in 1:27.4; Oscar Reyes high jumped 5'11¾"; Chitoshi (T-Bone) Akizuki broad jumped 21'7" as a "C"; Tetsu Kifune set a record in the "D" 50-yard dash of 5.7; and Marian Elder ran the "D" hundred in 10.7, which tied the county record.

Tom Macaulay, right, running the high hurdles.

Crown and Shield

Honor clubs have provided goals for countless students through the years. Selection on the basis of faculty recommendation for such qualities as scholastic achievement, service to the school, and unselfish character has made membership truly a memorable attainment.

The boys' honor society, Crown and Shield, was founded in 1909. Many distinguished names are on its roster — a very few: DeWitt Portal, Norman Mineta, Robert Ishikawa, Chuck Taylor, Ernest Renzel.

Torch and Laurel, girls' honor society, was formed in honor of Alice De Wit, now Mrs. Alice Popkin of San Francisco, first girl student body president, in 1914.

California Scholarship Federation, formed in 1933, recognizes scholastic attainment. Special interest honor groups are: drama, Thespians, and journalism Quill and Scroll.

SWIMMING

The San Jose High pool, built in 1917, was the first high school pool in the state. Keen competition has marked High's swimming records through the years. The pool was built at the present site in 1959-60.

Wrestlers from San Jose High took six known consecutive championships under the coaching of Mr. Sam Della Maggiore. The greatest wrestler that San Jose has ever produced was heavyweight Carl Jennsons, who was undefeated for three consecutive years and won every match by a pin.

Probably the most renowned tennis player in San Jose High history was Ernie Renzel, who was mayor of San Jose from 1944 to 1946. He is now in the wholesale food business.

Tennis player, Ernie Renzel

THE COACHES

The big three of coaching at San Jose High: Mr. William (Bill) Martin, Mr. A. E. (Lou) Vogt, and Mr. C. W. (Walt) Williams.

Mr. William H. Martin coached at San Jose High from 1924 to 1944. During this period his teams collected 40 Peninsula Athletic League championships in basketball, track, and sophomore football. This impressive total includes 10 championships in basketball and 26 in track. He coached sophomore football to four straight P.A.L. championships.

In two of the 15 years that he coached track, 1928 and 1939, he collected championships in all four weight divisions. No other P.A.L. school has accomplished that feat even once.

In 1937-38 he took over the basketball coaching after veteran mentor Lou Vogt died. His team won five out of seven crowns in D basketball.

Mr. Martin is now in the mathematics department, teaching geometry and algebra. He plans to retire after next year. Not many school coaches can retire on a record as brilliant as his.

Mr. A. E. (Lou) Vogt came to San Jose High in 1918. Then, until his death in 1937, he coached basketball and swimming. When he first arrived at the San Fernando Street campus, he coached San Jose to its first known basketball championship. At the time of his passing, he had coached 14 championship teams.

Mr. C. W. (Walt) Williams came to San Jose in 1922 and coached until 1944. During his time he coached San Jose to three football championships and 13 basketball championships. He was the person who introduced High's top athletes, Pete Kmetovic and Chuck Taylor, to football and he started several major leaguers in baseball. After leaving San Jose, he coached San Jose State College football. The Walt Williams sportsmanship trophy is dedicated to him.

Other coaches who have trained San Jose championship teams are Mr. Bob Berry, who guided the 1949 footbal team; Mr. Sam Della Maggiore, who coached six known consecutive wrestling championships and one baseball championship; Mr. Larry Arnerich, who coached seven basketball titlist teams; Mr. Don Brown, who coached two basketball teams to the league's top; Mr. Elgin Martin, with one track championship; Mr. George Clark, who had two basketball championships; Mr. Jack Ogden, who had one "B" football championship; Mr. Jack Avina, who coached five basketball championships; Mr. John Iskra, with one "B" basketball and sophomore baseball championship; and Mr. Bill DiCristina, who coached the junior varsity football team to a championship.

HIGH SCHOOL BELL

PUBLISHED MONTHLY | VOL. 1. JANUARY, 1898. NO. 1. | C. S. OSGOOD MANAGER.

ENGLISH IN THE PLURAL.

We'll begin with box, and the plural is boxes,
But the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes.
The one fowl is a goose, and two are called geese,
Yet the plural of moose should never be meese.
You may find a lone mouse or a whole nest of mice,
But the plural of house is houses, not hice.
If the plural of man is always called men,
Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen?
The cow in the plural may be cows or kine,
But a bow, if repeated, is never called bine;
And the plural of vow is vows, never vine.
If I speak of a foot, and you show me your feet,
And I give you a boot would a pair be called beet?
If one is a tooth, and a whole set are teeth,
Why shouldn'd the plural of booth be called beeth?
If the singular's this and the plural is these,
Should the plural of kiss ever be nicknamed kese?
Then one would be that and three would be those,
Yet hat in the plural would never be hose;
And the plural of cat is cats, not cose.
We speak of a brother, and also say brethren,
But though we say mother, we never say methren
Then the masculine pronouns are he, his, him,
But imagine the feminine she, shis, and shim!
So the English, I think you all will agree,
Is the greatest language you ever did see.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

the desire to prove his skill.

It is from this standpoint of developing the body with the mind, that athletics should be looked at, both in the High School and other institutions of a like nature, and should be encouraged even to the extent of being allowed credits, as it is in the universities.

There is another favorable view that can be taken of this question, and that is the spirit that emanates from it.

If the pupils of the High School be allowed to settle down to four years of steady work, so that their feeling for the institution becomes that of a slave for his master, the truth of the old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," will, without fail, be demonstrated Publications by San Jose High School students have helped stimulate school pride and spirit and preserve its history. Above is top of the first page of the first monthly issue of the "Bell," in January, 1898. The spring semester subscription was 25 cents. A special souvenir graduation number was issued in June, and for each graduating class. This first "Bell," published by students outside of school, was not the first school paper, an editorial noted.

With the publication of the first "Herald" on April 15, 1908, the "Bell" curtailed news notes and became solely a monthly literary publication. Latest copy currently on file is for May, 1909. The souvenir numbers evolved into today's yearbook form. The "Herald" is generally accepted as "America's Oldest High School Weekly.' Now a journalism class activity, assisted by photo and art class students, it wins high national awards yearly. (See Book II.)

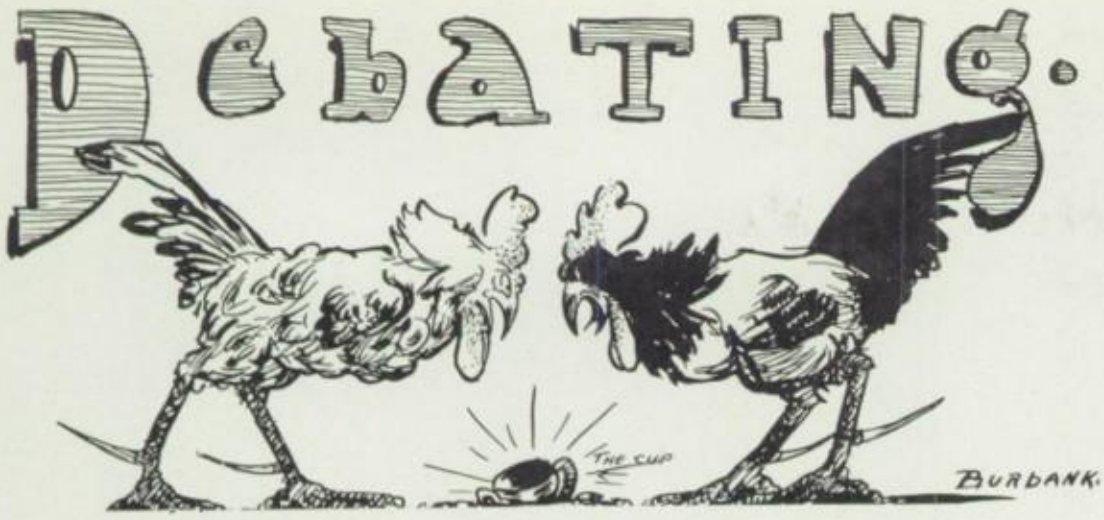
Mr. Ken Silva '62, above, executed the mosaic tile centennial medallion shown in upper left and on building in upper right, under the direction of Mr. Mark Briggs, art department chairman. The medallion and its Venetian tile materials were the gift to the school of the class of '62. The medallion will remain on the school's north wall in perpetuity.

Foreign exchange students in San Jose area high schools visited San Jose High School in the spring for a day at the suggestion of High's Viennese guest, Miss Gabrielle Janoschek.

Special class for high school aged deaf and severely hard of hearing moved to San Jose High in September of 1961. The first group of deaf students to complete a public high school education in Santa Clara County graduated in June, 1963. Above, left to right, instructor Mr. Donald Havis, graduates Joyce Tappero, Marilyn MacDonald, Sandra Gottschall, and Patricia Allen.



Animated spirit of debating contenders was captured by Burr Burbank, June 30, in "Bell" heading.

Literary and discussion clubs are deeply rooted in San Jose High School history. The men's group, Ecclesia, was founded in 1893. It adopted club colors, red and white, and a Latin motto, "Labor omnia vincint" (Labor conquers all).

The same year the women's group, the Delphic Literary Society, was organized. (See emblem at right.) Active members, limited to 45, and honorary memers had informal programs including recitations, debates, and brief talks and longer lectures. However, by 1920 members felt the club had become largely social and cliquish and voted to disband the group.

An active men's discussion group formed Nov. 19, 1888, was the Senate. Quotations by famous authors were frequently discussed. More topical was the discussion on June 3, 1897, of a bill to construct a canal in Nicaragua.

Logeion (Greek, "the place of speakers") was founded in 1898. Philalethea, a girls' debate group, formed in 1903. In 1904 Ephemerian (emblem at right) organized to debate with other literary groups. It was one of the five groups which decided to disband in 1920 because it was felt they had become purely social.

Jazz band pictured in 1930 "Bell" is one of many musical groups which have flourished on Bulldog campuses over the years.

Another early organizational phenomenon was the social fraternity and sorority. The boy's Epsilon chapter of Gamma Eta Kappa (the "Geks") was chartered April 16, 1884, but was dormant from 1888 to 1890. Beta chapter of Pi Delta Kappa (or Koppa) fraternity came to the West Coast in 1895.

Miss Frances Schallenberger in the 1898 "Bell" chronicled the history of Alpha chapter of Delta Iota Chi (the "Dix" girls), founded in 1894 by 18 young ladies. Omega Nu organized in 1897. Gamma chapter of Delta Sigma Theta formed in 1904.

A banner headline in the Feb. 20, 1914, "Herald" proclaims the order by Principal Charles M. Osenbaugh for fraternity and sorority members to resign and chapters to turn in membership lists. State law had outlawed them, and all chapters disbanded.

Closely related to literary groups were language clubs. These have included Kranzchen, German, founded in 1908; Les Bavardes, French, founded in 1911; a number of Spanish groups, including El Circulo Hispanico, formed in 1912, and, more recently, Los Buenos Companeros; Semper Latina, Latin club, functioned from 1952 through 1956.

Groups involving music and drama are also deeply rooted. An 1899 program featured the High School Mandolin Club. A Music Club organized in 1911 and a Ukelele Club formed in 1914. The Boys Glee Club started in 1913 and the Girls Glee Club in 1914.

An Arts Club formed in 1928, Robert Louis Stevenson Club in 1930, Dramacraft in 1931 and Jazz Orchestra the same year. Thunderbirds, making stage settings, formed in the spring of 1959.

Other interest clubs through the years have included Agriculture Club, 1914; Future Farmers of America, 1944; Bank Staff, 1912; Cadet Corps, 1914; History Club, 1924; Library Club, 1926; Burbank Club, 1929; Science Club, 1928; Bible Club, 1954; Chess (and Checkers) Club, 1948; Pen and Parchment; Amateur Radio; Audio-Visual, 1958; Math, 1961; Public Address Crew, 1956; Tomorrow's New Teachers, 1956; Red Cross, 1961; Photo Club, 1956; Girls League, 1925; Girls Athletic Association; Medical Careers, 1960; Girls Reserve Club; Police Club, 1940; Boosters Club; and American Field Service, 1962.

Service clubs have played a key role in mobilizing student assistance and, in turn, student involvement in school activities. The number of service clubs has partially reflected enrollment changes, as their membership is usually limited, resulting in formation of more clubs as enrollment rises.

Earliest date of enrollment figures available to Mr. Jackson Ellsworth, Feb. '23 graduate and supervisor of district attendance accounting, is 1898, when 272 were enrolled on Oct. 31. Other dates and figures, reflecting campus moves or lapse of a decade, include: 1903, 587; 1908, 768; 1913, 1,057; 1923, 2,380; 1933, 2,166; 1943, 1,562; 1953, 1,042; 1963, 1,524. The "Herald" of Feb. 27, 1924, the year before the 4-year school became a 3-year school with opening of Roosevelt and Wilson junior high schools, reported enrollment of 3,000 students. San Jose High was the only district high school until 1942, when Abraham Lincoln opened with 590 students. In 1950 Willow Glen opened with 552 and the Eastside District went into high school operation with James Lick High.

A fragmentary list of service clubs, with appropriate years of founding, includes: Boys—Tri Bar, '29; Excalibur, '52; Mayat, '54; Girls—'51: La Sei, Kai Rae, Ubalay, Quachettas, Jr. Starlighters; Kala Monai, 53: Tres Bonne, '54; Kajak, '57; Les Bijoux, '58; Hi Ettes, '59. Miscellaneous coeducational groups have been, in 1951, I.Y.A., Floor A, Jr. Statesmen; '53, Amity, St. Helier (at times girls only); '55, Library Assistants, C.E.C.; '57, Pep Club; '58, Future Nurses. Many of these clubs have been sporadic in existence, flourishing one year and disappearing the next.

Hillman Lueddemann, as "Thisbe," and Sylvester Hoffman, as "Pyranius," in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

BULLDOG PRIDE

School spirit — what is it? Some schools have it; all schools want it. San Jose High School is unique with its sense of "Bulldog Pride." To editorialize, it is a sense of school self-respect based upon the knowledge that every student respects every other student, and all pull together to promote the school which affords to all of them this all-too-rare attitude.

"You are the product of a school that looks upon each individual as a human being and judges each according to his own attitude, behavior, and accomplishments," Principal Gene G. Long wrote in his farewell letter to the class of 1963.

In addition to this internal motivation, there are, of course, external stimuli to school spirit. The yell leaders, the pompon girls, the pep rallies — all contribute to school enthusiasm during the sports season. The Big Bone Game on Thanksgiving Day (see sports) has been the high point since 1942, with queens chosen since 1950 (list at right).

The Bulldog, as pictured above when colors were purple and white for many years, and, since 1941, crimson and grey, has been a symbol, as it is for many schools, of tenaciousness, of fierce determination despite modest size.

The service clubs compete each year for the activity trophy shown at right. This aids the school activities, but for many students "activity points" are not needed. Ruth Colaw, '63, for example, donated countless after-school hours, although not a "Bell" staff member, to poring over old "Bell" volumes to find facts and curiosities for this historic issue.

Many traditional activities have built San Jose High's "bulldog pride." Color Day, a concessions carnival, existed from 1934 to 1960. Special days, dress-up day, straw hat day, "Wear White on Friday," "Let's keep our campus open" — many slogans have been used over the years. Stronger than any slogan or device, however, has been the innate good sense, pride, self-respect and youthful enthusiasm of our teen-agers. Truly can it be said of such as these — "Our roots are broad and deep."

HAIL TO THEE (Song)

Hail to thee, Hail to thee,
Hail to thee our alma - mater
In whose gentle hands we find
Love and faith in all man kind
Oh hail to thee, Hail to thee,
Our heroes fight for aye
Hail to our alma - mater,
Hail San Jose.

To our class teachers,
Mrs. Pillot and Mr. Bryant, who have guided us
so faithfully through our high school career, we dedicate
this issue of the "Bell"

FACULTY, CLASSES

Respect and friendship have always marked the mutual attitudes of student and teacher at San Jose High School. Token of this is the dedication above of the July, 1912, "Bell" edition to Mrs. Mary Pillot, history department head, who taught from 1889 to 1926, and Mr. James C. Bryant, mathematics teacher from 1904 to 1923. A lasting tribute to Mrs. Pillot is the plaque, shown on the facing page being read by a current student, which was dedicated to her memory by the class of June, 1927. It now is enshrined on the wall of the "B" corridor to remind each generation of her principles: "Stand square, think straight, and face the facts."

Providing guidance and leadership in turn for the teachers have been the principals listed below.

Teachers and administrators form a team whose goal is to train the student in the classroom, to provide for other school year experiences, to guide the student into constructive channels of activity, to help him find his way through selecting courses, planning careers, and finding jobs. A key figure in this process is the counselor, at times a classroom social studies teacher, at times a full-time trained specialist.

The name of your teacher, often forgotten with the passage of years, conjures up memories of classroom experiences, of successes and attempts at success, of classmates, of subject matter, and of human foibles. In the bordered boxes on this and subsequent pages, is an all to incomplete and imperfect list of past teachers. Some of the ladies married while still teaching or later, so names may not always be familiar.

An administrator and often a good friend, the vice principal plays a vital role. Sometimes a planner of courses, as curriculum director, an adviser to the student body and its many activities, a disciplinarian, as dean of boys or girls, a helping hand to steer a straight and smoother road in the same role, the vice principal's face is one familiar to all students. Following is an alphabetical list of vice principals.

This photo of the faculty appeared in the 1933 "Bell," which was dedicated to the memory of "Maj." R. B. Leland, principal, who died that spring.

What were they like, those teachers of yesteryear? What secrets did they have, that made the student dig in and seek the answers to the mysteries they posed? It is, to be sure, the same secret legerdemain practiced to this day in classrooms both hushed and buzzing — the firing of the imagination, the spreading of enthusiasm, the example of earnestness, the friendly yet firm hand of guidance.

Neither space nor time nor information would make possible the full tracing of all the teachers, their courses, and the changes in school programs. Suffice it to say that when there existed in the minds of the school board, the administrators, and the nation's leading thinkers, a need — for a new course, a new emphasis, or redoubled energies — a teacher was found, a course set up, equipment secured to meet that need.

When San Jose High was young, advanced education was a rare privilege. Youngsters were needed at home in the struggle for existence, to help on the farm, in the shop, or family business. Only a few of the wealthy would go on to the halls of still higher education. But the leaders of the community wanted to see that every family which was willing to scrimp and struggle to send their youngsters to high school could do so, free of tuition charges. This they did.

Reflecting the changes in community needs, in physical facilities, in national customs, and showing the role of guidance in shaping special services is the following statement on curriculum. It was prepared by Mr. Karl O. Pedersen, vice principal and curriculum director at the present time.

"San Jose High School started as a two-year institution in 1863, and from the beginning the curriculum has been changing to meet the needs of the community and the students. In 1868 the board of education prescribed the books and course of study for the high school, which was as follows: Wilson's 'Fifth Reader,' Russell and Murdock's 'Vocal Culture,' Robinson's 'High Arithmetic,' Robinson's Elementary Algebra,' Korles' 'Grammar,' Warren's 'Physical Geography,' Quackenbos' 'Philosophy,' Quackenbos' 'History, U.S.,' Wilson's 'Larger Speller,' Cutler's 'Anatomy,' Wood's 'Botany,' Porter's 'Chemistry,' Robinson's 'Elementary Geometry,' Payson and Dutton's 'Bookkeeping.'

"In 1870 the board of education authorized the teaching of Latin. In 1871 the board adopted the following course of study: Reading, spelling, English grammar, physical geography, arithmetic, algebra, physiology, U.S. History, natural philosophy, bookkeeping, rhetoric, and astronomy. In 1873, the school graduated seven students. By 1877 the course of study was extended to three years. In 1879 at the urging of the University of California the school became a four-year high school.

"In 1881 printing instruction was required of all boys in the junior class. Three hours per week were devoted to learning how to set type.

"In 1885 a more general industrial education was tried with sewing and needlework offered for girls. In 1887 manual training was offered for boys.

"In 1911 medical examinations were given by the school physician and dental examinations were given in the dental clinic. Stammering and stuttering pupils were given special attention.

"On March 9, 1920, a bond issue passed to build a new high school. In 1921 the following lines of work were offered in the Polytechnic High School: "Woodwork, electrical work, auto construction and repairing, carpentry and building, lumber and planing-mill work, sheet metal work, and oxygen and acetylene welding and cutting.

This rare photo, acquired through the San Jose City Historian, Mr. Clyde Arbuckle, is of Rev. Laurentine Hamilton, who provided the leadership which led to the creation of high school education in San Jose. He was president of the school board from 1862 to 1864 and his role in creation of San Jose High School has already been described in this volume, beginning on page 12. It was after him that Mt. Hamilton was named, as he accompanied William Brewer and Charles Hoffman of the Whitney Survey Party to the top of that peak. In 1864 he moved to Oakland where he died in the pulpit of his Presbyterian church on Easter Sunday in 1882.

"In 1925, the 6-6-3-year elementary, junior and senior high school system was established.

"With the changing times San Jose High School has offered a diversified program of studies. Every effort has been made to meet the needs of the students and the community.

"The high school program of today offers a wide variety of skills and knowledge to the students. The Vocation Program at Vocational Center offers trade courses to boys and the business education department offers job training courses for girls. At the same time, the college preparatory student has many courses available to him in the 12 departments of the school, including science, mathematics, foreign languages and special English courses such as world literature, creative writing, and accelerated reading. For students with special needs there are the remedial subjects, non-curricular classes, hard of hearing classes, and classes for the mentally retarded.

"The school program is evaluated constantly to provide a better education for all of the students of San Jose High School and to maintain the school as a truly comprehensive high school."

To Mr. Pedersen's statement may be added information gleaned from interviews with department heads in individual teachers, for a scattered sampling of additional insight. Book Two also provides a comprehensive view of current course offerings.

The art department has offered training in all art forms, including ceramics and sculpture, oil and water color, and other less familiar media. In addition, through such applied arts courses as "Bulldog Studio," it has provided realistic experience in the work of the commercial artist on the artist-client basis. Promotion campaigns throughout the school have been conceived by "Mass Media" and outlined and executed by "Bulldog Studio." Silk-screen posters, special trophy-case displays, and other items have been prepared in abundance. Current chairman is Mr. Mark Briggs.

Commerce department subjects are directed by Mr. Howard Bonniksen, who lists as their goal "to provide our students with basic skills needed in business." Originally, he reports, the curriculum included only the vocational skills, such as typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping. However, the department has expanded to give students a more general picture of business. This has been done through such classes as secretarial training, founded by Dr. Donald Mork (see photo on page 90), where students actually work for businesses an afternoon a week. Other such broad courses are economics, business law, and clerical office practices.

Two years ago the program was further expanded to provide actual on-the-job training in retail sales, through the distributive education class and work experience. In this way the student acquires actual sales experience before graduation.

A related activity of the commerce department is operation of the school bank, founded by Mr. Frank Glasson (see page 90), and the school store opened two years ago.

Growth in the the number and type of courses offered by departments is particularly evident in the English department, according to Mr. Walter Kraus, department chairman, who adds these comments:

"In the beginning the English curriculum was devoted to preparing young men and women for college, and the courses offered in English reflected that goal. As the years passed, the population of the school chaged, and as other interests began to be reflected within the high school community, the English courses offered at San Jose High also changed to meet the new needs and desires of the students attending. Although the primary goal of the English courses at High is to prepare the able students for college entrance, other goals, equally important, have been established to meet the needs of those students less able to complete a college preparatory curriculum, as well as those students who will be completing their formal education upon graduation from San Jose High.

Teaching and administrative career of Charles B. Gleason, shown above soon after he began teaching in 1898, extended until 1937. His courses included Latin and Greek. He took his master's degree at Harvard University.

"New English courses that reflect the school's awareness of its responsibilities to the community include such courses as developmental reading, remedial reading, and remedial English. These courses are offered to increase the quality of the student's basic skills. In addition, High offers such a course as non-curricular English for students with definite academic limitations. This course is designed to free a student from a set curriculum in order to take him from his own level of academic achievement to the highest level he can possibly attain while at San Jose High."

Aside from these new courses devoted to the less able students, the English department also offers accelerated courses in sophomore, junior, and senior English, for the superior student who needs to be challenged with an enriched course of study. The student must go beyond the normal college preparatory course requirements in both the quality and quantity of work performed. The creative writing course and elective in world literature also are designed to challenge the very able student in special fields of English that require a very high degree of ability and performance. The creative writing students join with the Pen and Parchment interest club in producing an annual volume of poetry and prose, "From the Pen."

Drama, journalism, and speech are three other specialized areas related to the English curriculum, each with a specialist as instructor.

"It is obvious then," Mr. Kraus continues, "that San Jose High, besides increasing in age over the past century, has also increased its ability to meet the needs of the growing community it represents and reflects. The English department is just one of the many departments that reflect this growth and change at San Jose High."

A scholarship of approximately $400 to the University of California honors the memory of Mr. Charles B. Gleason. The yearly award was founded in 1943.

Seniors have an opportunity to test the strength of their liking for the teaching profession through the teacher aide program, assisting elementary school teachers daily from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. for one semester, or, as in the case of the four students shown here, for two semesters. Carol Scheidt, upper left; Joesphine Schweizer, lower left; and Dottie Burchfield, lower right, assisted at Selma Olinder elementary school, while Anne Cobb, upper right, aided at Anne Darling elementary school. Principals at both schools described the work of these four as outstanding. The program has been operated for several years. Aides assist in planning, do individual work, help youngsters with reading, plan bulletin boards, and do other work.

Lewis B. Avery served as principal of San Jose High School from 1908 until 1913.

Miss Dixie Bullard and Mrs. Mary d'Artenay are current teachers of home economics. The department was founded in 1909. Besides classes for girls, boys' classes in food preparation have been offered as early as prior to World War I. The instructors have also sponsored boys' cooking clubs.

"The home is still the most important aspect of our democracy," Mrs. d'Artenay emphasizes. "The major purpose of our home economics program is to prepare young women and men to recognize the high purpose of being a homemaker. This high purpose can be served only as our students learn the fundamentals, skills, and attitudes needed to make a home run smoothly. We put much stress on these fundamentals."

Industrial arts courses include agriculture, auto shop, crafts, drafting, electronics, general metals, and wood shop.

"Bell" shows Mr. Avery's faculty.

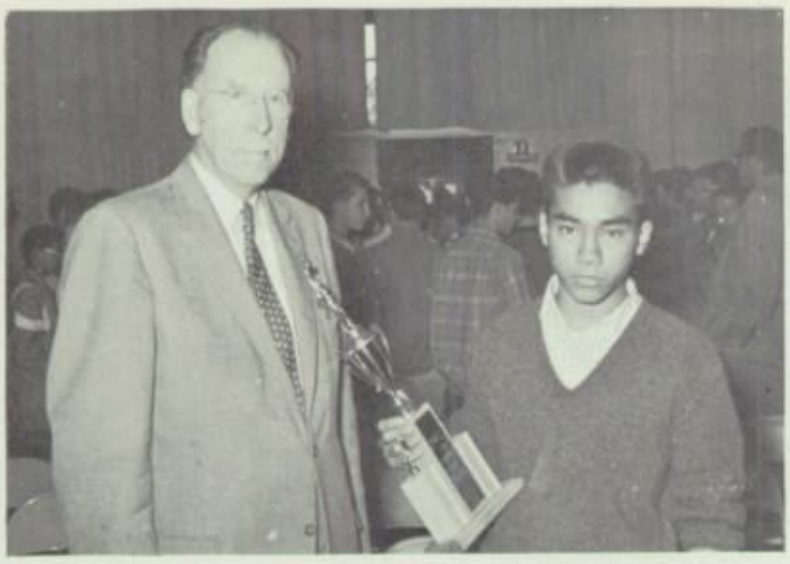
Mr. Frank Glasson, teacher at San Jose High from 1911 to 1947, was first adviser to the school bank, which was organized in 1912 in Room 13 of the 1908 structure. The bank, originally an agency of the First National Bank, moved to the new commercial wing in 1914. It became the depository for Associated Student Body funds. Today, in Room 22, it sells school supplies and recommended paperback books.

Mr. Roland Eberhart, teacher at San Jose High from 1929 to 1955, himself graduated from SJH in February, 1909. He was a member of the first staff of the weekly newspaper, the Herald, founded in 1908. In tribute to his ability, Gamma Omega chapter, San Jose State, of Phi Delta Kappa, professional education fraternity, named him "Teacher of the Year" in 1962. He is an interested visitor at High to this day.

Dr. Donald Mork, San Jose High School faculty member from 1927 to 1962, found jobs for 750 secretaries during those years. He founded the secretarial training program which places students in offices one afternoon a week. He saw to it that they were trained so well that more job offers than students were available each year. Not only an expert in shorthand, Dr. Mork knows many near and far eastern languages. A student of eastern philosophy, he took his Ph.D. at the American Academy of Asian Studies, San Francisco, where he now teaches.

Miss Bessie Lundy, instructor at San Jose High School from 1941 to 1961, served as counselor and social studies teacher. Described by a colleague as "kindly, sympathetic, enthusiastic and positive," she typifies the combination guide and mentor. Starting this fall, the counseling system is being changed from six counselor-social studies teachers to three full-time counselors for the estimated 1,450 students.



Edward M. Jefferson, former vice principal, now retired, and student display trophy after award assembly.

In the early twenties, Mr. Wilbur Miller, department chairman, reports, the department was taken from San Jose High and made into San Jose Technical High School. The two schools operated side by side at Washington Square, until Tech, the Vocational Center, was moved to its present location at San Jose City College in 1952. At the beginning of 1963 enrollment in the 13 shops at the Vocational Center, to which outstanding high school craftsmen are admitted, was 532, including 380 high school and 152 junior college students. Of the 380, 98 San Jose High students took a bus from the Bulldog campus to attend the morning "Tech" session, while 26 attended the afternoon session. Director of the center's program since its founding in 1956 has been Jack L. Anderson, a 1926 San Jose High graduate.

(With the separation of the City College, on whose campus the Vocational Center is located, from the San Jose Unified School District in the Feb. 26, 1963, election, the future form of advanced vocational training is now being worked out. "We are, of course, committed to continuing the high school vocational training program," Dr. Earle P. Crandall, superintendent of schools, commented.)

"MAJ." R. B. LELAND

"A dynamic force in the shaping of San Jose High School" is the description that has been applied to R. B. Leland, principal from September, 1918, until his sudden death Friday evening, May 5, 1933. A star football player at the University of Iowa, he joined High's faculty in 1910. Major Leland introduced cadet drill and commanded the school's corps. "He had a strong impact on the school. A military man, with a big physique, he had a strong sense of fairness. Everyone understood and trusted him," Mr. Ben Sweeney, a later principal, said he had been told by many faculty members.

Mourning was schoolwide when he died. Mr. Sweeney recalls being told Major Leland was driving Edward Jefferson, then a young teacher, home from a boys 'athletic jamboree when he suffered a sudden heart attack.

English for the foreign-born is one of the many day and evening courses taught at the adult education center located at San Jose High School.

Cecilia O'Neil, dynamo of energy in the 1962-63 Centennial celebration and in helping organize the May 18 banquet which drew some 1,900 to the Santa Clara County Fairgrounds, was herself a 1906 San Jose graduate. She joined the faculty in 1914, pioneering play and corrective work in girls' physical education and serving as a model for teachers throughout the state. She was dean of girls from 1942 until her retirement in 1952.

"The industrial arts courses at San Jose High itself give many students a chance to learn about modern industry in a practical way," Mr. Miller writes. "Here at High we have the only Federal Communications Commission — licensed amateur radio station in any of the district's senior high schools. This station, K6PGH, has been on the air since 1955, and various student operators have talked to amateurs through the U.S., Canada, Central America, and Hawaii."

Mr. Anthony (Tex) Texeira, San Jose High teacher from 1921 to 1955, directs an industrial arts class, in photo at right. One former student now heads a steel company. Below, Mr. William (Bill) Martin, who coached many track champions, is now the senior member of the faculty in point of service, having taught since 1924. A mathematics teacher, he plans to retire after next year.

The foreign language department, headed by Mr. Robert Carlisle, has at various times offered Latin, Greek, Italian and German, besides the four years each of French and Spanish currently available.

"The main emphasis is on the spoken language," Mr. Carlisle notes. A modern language laboratory, installed this year, makes possible listening to tape recordings of native speakers.

"Study of foreign languages also helps introduce students to foreign cultures, aiding them in appreciating the distinctive qualities of varied heritages," Mr. Carlisle adds.

Advanced electricity students, Richard Harris and Claudio Navarro, '63, consult with Mr. C. S. Kinney, Vocational Center instructor.

Physical education, not only through sports, but through developmental work, is required of all boys and girls unless a medical exemption exists. Miss Marjorie Hinson, girls' chairman, describes goals of the girls' program as "helping each individual girl to achieve the maximum standard of health in order to help her in living a better life through the development of poise, coordination, and agility."

This quick survey has been necessarily limited because of space. In addition, special reports would be warranted on the library, health program, and special education. All three phases are designed to meet the needs of the total school program as well as the individual students' needs.

FAMILY ALBUM

San Jose High students enjoy after-school outing at historic museum at Trader Lew's in San Jose, in old-time costumes loaned to them by Goodwill Auxiliary. Project was suggested by Vicki Galati, "Bell" staff activities editor. Below, proclamation signed by San Jose Mayor Robert Welch was one of several formal documents recognizing centennial year. State Assembly and Senate also passed resolutions.

CITY OF SAN JOSE
CALIFORNIA

CITY HALL

TELEPHONE CYPRESS 2-3141

ROBERT I. WELCH
MAYOR

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, San Jose High School was the first public school in San Jose to provide high school education for its growing population, and

WHEREAS, San Jose High School, through the able administration of Mr. Gene G. Long and his staff, and through the efforts of its dedicated teachers, continues to provide a superior education for the young adults of San Jose, and

WHEREAS, San Jose High School today is truly representative of the varied racial and religious backgrounds, that give strength and vitality to our growing democracy, and

WHEREAS, San Jose High School this year celebrates its one-hundredth year of outstanding service to the citizens of this community,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ROBERT I. WELCH, Mayor of the City of San Jose, do hereby proclaim the week of May 12, 1963 to be SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL CENTENNIAL WEEK, and I urge all people of this community to join with me to render honor and tribute to San Jose High School, its administrators, teachers and students.

ATTEST:

Francis L. Brien

City Clerk

PROCLAIMED this 1st day of April, 1963, in the City of San Jose, California.

Robert I. Welch

Mayor

CLASS OF JAN. '27

February, 1963, reunion of Jan. '27 class

The January, 1927, graduating class is the oldest continuously functioning class of San Jose High School alumni. Each year its members come together, elect officers, and arrange for continuation of the DeWitt Portal scholarship, which provides a $125 scholarship annually from interest on the principal which members have donated.

The 1962 class president, Mr. Byron Moore, presented the scholarship to Miss Ruth Tingey '62 in February, 1963. The 1963 president, Mr. Eddie Duino, golf professional, presented the '63 award to Miss Josephine Schweizer at the '63 awards assembly. The scholarship honors the January '27 class president, Mr. DeWitt Portal, famed San Jose State boxing coach, pictured at right below. (For story, see page 45.)

THE graduation of the January Class of 1927 was a distinct loss to every activity in school. Dramatics, debating, and athletics all lost stellar performers.

Under a capable administration, the energy and skill of the class manifested itself in the presentation of one of the most successful Senior Shows ever given, in the presentation of a Senior Ball that for beauty of decoration and music will long remain unsurpassed, and in the initiation of a fund for turfing Reed Field.

CLASS OF JUNE '37

Class of 1937 at 1940 reunion

The San Jose High School graduating class of June, 1937, shown on this page at two of its reunions, is one of the two classes which have met each year without fail since graduation. The other class with this distinction is the January '27 group.

When the graduating class of June, 1937, said its farewells to San Jose High School, the student body president was Ann Radojevich, now Mrs. Clovis T. Mirassou, pictured below. Principal at that time, from 1933 to 1945, was Mr. Forrest G. Murdock, at right in photo below. As a part of the centennial observance this year, the classes of '27 and '37 adopted faculty members or administrators as honorary members of their graduating classes. Thus is was that Mr. Murdock became an honorary graduate of the class of '37. The centennial banquet on Saturday, May 18, constituted the 1963 reunion for the '37 class and many other classes, some of which had not met for many years.

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 74

By Senator Bradley

Commemorating the 100th anniversary of San Jose High School

WHEREAS, The year 1963 marks the 100th anniversary of the founding of San Jose High School, one of the oldest schools in continuous existence in California, and the only high school in San Jose for 79 years; and

WHEREAS, The original one-room school house on Washington Square was succeeded by two rooms on the second floor of a building on Santa Clara Street between Second and Third Streets; and

WHEREAS, The third schoolhouse, built in 1903 on the site of the present Horace Mann Elementary School between Fifth and Sixth on Santa Clara, was destroyed by the earthquake of 1906, following which the school operated for two years on a limited-day basis in the old Lincoln Elementary School at 408 Almaden Avenue; and

WHEREAS, The fourth high school building on San Fernando Street between Fifth and Seventh was used from 1908 until 1952 when the present modern facility was opened; and

WHEREAS, Commencing in 1863 with J. J. Bowen, 20 persons have held the position of principal in the century of San Jose High School's existence; and

WHEREAS, Major Raymond B. Leland was principal for the longest period of time, serving from 1918 to 1933; and

WHEREAS, One of the best-known principals of the school, Rockwell D. Hunt, who served from 1902 to 1908, is presently Director Emeritus of the California Historical Foundation at the University of the Pacific, and President of the Conference of California Historical Societies; and

WHEREAS, Under the able administration of the present principal, Gene G. Long, the students of San Jose High School are continuing their long scholastic record of excellence; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE SENATE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, That the Members hereby extend their heartiest congratulations to San Jose High School on the occasion of its 100th anniversary; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Secretary of the Senate is directed to transmit a suitably prepared copy of this resolution to Gene G. Long, Principal of San Jose High School.

I HEREBY CERTIFY, That the above resolution was unanimously adopted by the Senate of the State of California on March 4, 1963.

SECRETARY OF THE SENATE

Miss Emilie Reiff, shown in '22 graduation yearbook, is all-time San Jose High rooter. "Unassuming with a pleasant personality," the "Bell" described her. The '42 "Bell" was dedicated to her. She joined the staff as a clerical assistant in '22, and today is indispensable principal's secretary, friend to all and beloved by all. For a current photo, see page 118 of this volume.

The late Miss Ellen (Nellie) Keaton, '79, points to picture in class photo held by Mr. Ben Sweeney, then principal, in 1952.

THANK YOU

To the many students, faculty, alumni, friends, and family, to City Historian Clyde Arbuckle, San Jose Public Library reference librarian Alice Olson, the Bancroft Library of the University of California, all of whom contributed to the historical research for this souvenir volume, go the writer's sincere thanks. To the many who should have been mentioned but for which space was lacking or detailed information was too elusive to capture, the writer extends his apologies. For any oversights or errors, also, regrets are extended, and perhaps another year a supplement will contain more complete information.

Dr. Earle P. Crandall
Superintendent of Schools

The proud growth of high school education in San Jose is deeply rooted in the century of history at San Jose High School. As one of the leading high schools of the State in academic achievement, San Jose High School was also a leader in the development of student body activities.

The students of today have the graduates of former years and their great teachers to thank for making high school an exciting place in which to get an education.

Graduates have streamed out of the proud halls of San Jose High School for one hundred years and have become the student leaders of Stanford, the University of California, San Jose State College, and other institutions of higher education all over the United States. They have become the prominent citizens of San Jose, of Santa Clara County, and the State and nation.

We are proud of you, one and all, and extend best wishes to San Jose High School as it starts its second hundred years of history in San Jose.

Earle P. Crandall
Superintendent of Schools

Mr. Gene G. Long
Principal
M.A., Stanford U.

Few high schools in California have qualified to celebrate their Centennial — San Jose High is one of these few. The oldest high school in our State was established just six years prior to the time High was born in 1863 under the leadership of J. J. Bowen. Though not the oldest, there is no high school richer in tradition or loyalty of its alumni. This loyalty was truly brought to light when on May 18th of this year almost 2,000 people joined together at a banquet to celebrate High's 100th birthday; the oldest high school in the State had 1250 people at its 100th birthday party.

As San Jose High enters its second one hundred years, it will continue to modify its curriculum to better prepare students to succeed in our increasingly complex society. The challenge of the future is great, but it will be met by present and future Highans as the challenges of the past have been met by former students.

LEADERS

Student government is composed of several branches. Each is designed to promote an efficiently organized form of government.

With the combined skill and effort of the student body officers, important issues are discussed and solutions for these issues are presented to the student body for its approval or rejection.

The officers work for the school and for the nearly 1500 students which comprise its student body.

The student leaders of the school set and helped accomplish goals in an effective and well-organized manner. The committees, secretaries and under-secretaries all perform essential duties for the school and its students.

In training for leadership, as well as carrying out valuable school activities, the leaders of our student government advance the growth of democracy. In this way, and many others, student goveernment furthers our theme, "Our Roots Are Wide and Deep."

STUDENT COURT PLAYS

The student court interprets school constitution.

MAJOR ROLE

The powers of student court, put to their limit, are wide and strong. Among its several powers are those of impeachment, receiving student complaints, and seeing what, if anything, can be done about them. Trying offenders of the student code also is handled by the student court members. They also interpret the constitution as their foremost activity.

SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL
ESTABLISHED 1863

LOWER CLASSMEN

From September to June the lower classmen enter into a schedule of scholastic, athletic, and recreational events.

The sophomores enjoy the freshness of high school while the juniors enjoy the atmosphere of their in-between status.

When the sophomores first entered the halls of San Jose High a new and challenging life opened for them. The class adviser, Mr. Saxton Pope, and the class officers helped to promote responsibility to the students and willingness to work. Most of all, the class leaders tried to make their sophomore year the happiest and their most memorable one.

Juniors traditionally have set an example of good sportsmanship by treating others equally, whether they are sophomores or seniors. Mr. James Spano, the junior class adviser, and the class officers this year helped the class prepare to take the place of the seniors, and, at the same time, to be leaders to the lower classmen. Benefiting from the experiences of the seniors and their own experiences in their sophomore year, the juniors prepared to make their senior and last year the best!

Mr. James Spano
Class Adviser

Rose Soto
President

This year, as in years past, the junior class has been ready and willing to promote general activities and to establish its own leaders and ideas. One of the outstanding ideas was that of having the junior prom held in the administration building. The theme, "Shangri-La," was carried out effectively by using the upstairs of the administration corridor as a balcony. The junior prom took planning and hard work, and it will be long remembered by all juniors as well as the entire student body.

The junior year having reached its conclusion, students are now looking forward to the senior year which will culminate their three years at San Jose High School.

Excalibur members wash cars to raise funds for student body treasury.

The sophomores' first year at San Jose High has been both thrilling and exciting. They received a very warm welcome by the principal, Mr. Gene Long, and the students. At the year's first assembly, given in their honor, the cheerleaders told of the traditions that have been carried on by this great school throughout its existence. One of the traditions has been that of having a Sophomore Welcome Dance, this year entitled "Centennial Jive of the Class of '65." As the year drew to an end, sophomores were excitedly looking forward to their next year at High.

ACTIVITIES

The developing of the mind and the building of the body are not the only activities students participate in during the long, hard grind through their school years. Activities of interest, service, and honor clubs fulfill the other phase of the life at San Jose High.

The interest clubs stimulate the dormant curiosities of students, which might otherwise not be drawn out until later in life. Through service clubs, students develop a sense of devotion, loyalty, and responsibility towards the school by their tireless work to make their school excel above others. Finally, the honor clubs show the leadership that students have evidenced through service and academics. These students display the personality of the school.

Many students have become useful citizens because of these activities by finding within themselves what they really would like to do in later life, by developing devotion and loyalty to their country and fellow men, and by the growth of responsibility and leadership, which will help them greatly after high school.

Activities have played an important part in the development of the person up to and after graduation. Thus, we can proudly say, in this sense, "our roots are broad and deep."

SCHOLARS WIN HONORS

The objective of the California Scholarship Federation is to promote high standards of scholarship, service, and citizenship on the part of high school students. A student must have earned a total of 10 points each semester. An "A" grade counts as 3 points and a "B" grade counts as 1 point. A person may also earn points by holding a class or student body office. Miss Lillian Hicks is the club's sponsor.

DRAMA, PUBLICATIONS HONORS WON

Mr. Gerald Turnoy is the sponsor of Quill and Scroll honor society for journalists. Juniors and seniors who hold responsible publication positions and are in the upper third of their respective classes are eligible to apply. Since its founding on March 20, 1948, the club has had several reunions, made programs for one of the annual Big Bone Games, and sponsored programs to attract outstanding students to the journalism program.

The Bell Staff or 1963 had a most enjoyable year as it produced the largest Bell in San Jose High's one hundred year history. The staff members were involved in numerous activities which included the gathering of San Jose High's history. Each member experienced a deep devotion and loyalty toward the staff by spending many long hours during and after school and long into the night to meet their deadlines.

"This has been a very challenging year," Mr. Gerald Turnoy, Bell editorial adviser, commented.

We saw the challenge and we conquered it.

SAN JOSE HIGH SCHOOL
ESTABLISHED 1863

OUR BAND SA

UTES THE CENTENNIAL YEAR

Founded in 1959, Thunderbirds has since then become one of the most active clubs on campus. Besides making sets and props, members handle the sound of High's stage productions. The group works closely with the drama department and is sponsored by Mrs. Marjorie Shull.

STUDENTS SHOW THEIR INTEREST

The Audio-Visual club is composed of students assigned to show films in classes, and students interested in A.V. A special project of the club is the training of T.N.T. members to operate the audio-visual equipment. The club holds trouble-shooting sessions for student projectionists. Mrs. Mildred Chatton sponsors the group.

San Jose High was the first school in this area to have a bank. The 33 members of Bank Staff are getting real-life experiences in honesty, trust, and responsibility. The bank staff is the hub of all of San Jose High's student finances. Mr. Howard Bonniksen is the sponsor.

A person must have demonstrated responsibility and art ability to become a member of Bulldog Studio. The class strives to teach talented students in the field of commercial art by providing a professional studio situation in which the students produce banners, posters, displays, and other materials for school needs. The class was founded in 1955 and is taught by Mr. Mark Briggs.

Posting absentees, collecting absence slips, filing excuses, acting as switchboard operators, and working with the registrar are some of the duties of the office assistants. A very important part of the office system, the office assistants are sponsored by Mrs. Irene Nelson and Mrs. Sally Goodman.

Founded on April 22, 1957, the Future Business Leaders of America try to create more understanding and interest in choosing occupations and also to encourage scholarship and develop citizenship. The club, sponsored by Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, holds a candy sale every year to raise money to send delegates to the FBLA state convention. This year the convention was held in Berkeley.

The main purpose of San Jose High School's Future Farmers of America is the goal of developing agricultural leaders. Among some of the activities are the Parent-Son Banquet, and participation in the County Fair. Sending someone to the National Convention at Kansas City is a yearly project for the club.

Pen and Parchment is a literary club. The first activity on Pen and Parchment's agenda this year was the initiation of new club members. Sponsor is Miss Frances Malovos. The Editorial Board of Pen and Parchment meets every week to judge the material turned in for "From the Pen," an annual book put out by the club every May. They also meet once a week to read and to give constructive criticism of their own material.

Founded in 1958 to help inform students of the opportunities in a medical career, the Medical Careers club is sponsored by Mrs. Ella Crow, school nurse. The club is open to all students who are interested in any field of medicine. Some of this year's activities were a trip to Agnews State Hospital and a trip to the medical section of San Jose State College.

The Science Club, sponsored by Mr. Neil Coley, is an organization which is designed to promote interest in scientific fields of study and research and occupations. Some of the activities this year included a trip to the Standard Oil Refinery in Richmond and a trip to the tide pools in the Santa Cruz area.

Les Connoisseurs, which was organized this school year, is a club for boys who are interested in foods. The boys prepare a meal every Thursday for guests who give educational talks. The club's sponsor is Mrs. Mary d' Artenay.

Mrs. Sheila Cole is the sponsor of Red Cross. In this club students work together providing service to the community. The club this year helped at the Red Cross Chapter House, collected $83.37 in its enrollment drive, and completed a wooden chest for a foreign country. It also gave some parties at children's homes in the area.

The Public Address Club, sponsored by Mr. Arthur Till, works day and night to set up sound for games, assemblies, track and swim meets, and dances. Members are usually in radio and electronics shops.

Mrs. Mildred Chatton is the sponsor of the San Jose Chapter (started in 1961) of the Student Library Association Of Northern California. The club has had several projects such as a special book week open house in the library. They also keep the library open during the noon hour.

Tomorrow's New Teachers, sponsored by Mrs. Elaine Fisk, has 25 members led by the club president, Ruth Colaw. Activities the club participated in this year were a visit to the University of California at Berkeley, helping sponsor a workshop in which each member chose the year of school they plan to teach and attended that class, attending a district conference at San Jose State College, and hearing Mr. George Blanks speak about teaching as a profession.

Stimulating an interest in mathematics and providing additional experiences for those interested in this field are the main objectives of the Math Club, sponsored by Mr. James Hood. Activities include investigation of mathematical games and problems which are not suited for the work of the regular classes.

The Amateur Radio club was founded on November 9, 1955, to promote radio knowledge and fraternalism and assist members in getting their radio licenses. Some of their special projects this year are contacting amateurs throughout the United States and Canada and operating High's radio station, K6 PGH. Mr. Miller is the club's sponsor.

Photo Club, sponsored by Mr. Prospero Anaya, is engaged in many photo activities. The members learn to develop film, take better pictures, and print and enlarge negatives. Among the many things stressed by Mr. Anaya is quality over quantity.

The major project that the American Field Service Club sponsors is the annual Ambassador's Ball. The ball, "Faire Exchange," was a great success toward helping send a student abroad. Lucille Hood was selected to go to Japan this summer. The club is sponsored by Miss Eleanor Enrione.

SAN JOSE HIGH MEETS THE WORLD

Miss Eleanor Enrione
AFS Sponsor

The San Jose Lions Club sponsors the incoming foreign student, and the San Jose High students help sponsor their own students going abroad with its annual Ambassadors Ball. San Jose High started its international program six years ago when it entered the American Field Service International Scholarship Program.

San Jose High has received six foreign students and has sent five American students abroad. Miss Eleanor Enrione, Mr. Robert Carlisle and Mr. Clarence Sloetzer are the faculty members who have served as advisers to this program. Miss Enrione is the current adviser.

The countries that have been represented by students visiting here are Germany, Denmark, the Argentine, Italy, and Austria. The countries which have received San Jose's students are Switzerland, Norway, Denmark, Chile, and the Netherlands.

Dear friends:

A year has gone by so quickly since I first came to San Jose High School! I remember the differences I found in your school which were so new to me; but with the kind and patient help from the friendly faculty members and all of you wonderful students, it seemed very easy for me to adjust. It was such an interesting experience to learn about your activities and to be so fortunate to be able to participate. I am deeply thankful to both the American Field Service and the San Jose Lion's Club which made it possible for me to spend the most exciting year of my life here. I am especially happy that they selected San Jose High for me. I shall always be most proud to have been numbered amongst its graduates.

I have made so many friends here and feel so close to each and everyone of you, that I shall never forget you, and I only wish it would be possible either for you to visit my country soon, or for me to return some day to you. Thank you for all your kindnesses.

Always,

Gaby Janoschek

Dear friends:

Visiting Tilburg, Netherlands, will probably be the most memorable experience of my life. I know that it has been the best event of my three years at San Jose High.

Living with the Klinkum family for two months during the summer of 1962 has given me many fond memories. Were it not for the guidance of Miss Eleanor Enrione and all of the other people connected with the American Field Service on the local, national, and international level, these memories would not be possible. I will always be grateful to the A.F.S. for my wonderful summer of '62.

With the continuing support of the students, teachers, and other interested people, our A.F.S. program can continue to expand and give other students the experience of a lifetime, thus making men and women of tomorrow from the youth of today, and proving to all that the barriers of race, religion, and creed are not in reality barriers at all, but valuable stepping stones to better understanding.

Sincerely,

Nick Carter

SPORTS

Developing good sportsmanship and better physical ability in practice sessions and in games are minor goals of athletics. Preparing to live is the major one. The spirit of determination gained from sports is vital in life after graduating from high school.

Determination is gained from the many hours of practice and is finally displayed on the field in games. This type of determination can turn defeat into victory, failure into success, or, in a sense, in later life can be the difference between getting fired and doing a good job. This quality has been displayed by the many fine citizens that have participated in athletics before going into community life. These citizens will lead our nation in determining if we will keep the freedom of our society or lose it.

The importance of athletics can clearly be seen and can be cited as one of the great roots of San Jose High in its one-hundred year history. Thus, we can say proudly, in this sense, "our roots are broad and deep."

The varsity gridmen launched the 1962 season victoriously by trouncing the Pioneer Mustangs, 30-0. The Bulldogs continued their winning ways, compiling a 4-0 record midway through the season. The Hill game, however, was lost 9-6, as the cold Bulldogs encountered a stubborn Hill team. The battling Bulldogs proved that they were not finished by smashing Washington 39-0 later in the season. Season tally was 6 wins, 3 losses.

Coach Chris Pappas stated, "This year's varsity football team was outweighed by all of the teams they met, but despite this disadvantage, they were able to take a third place in the league. An example of the type of scrappy team they were was demonstrated in the Lincoln game when they were behind by three touchdowns in the fourth quarter of the game, and came back to within one touchdown of tying the game with an excellent show of spirit, determination, and hard blocking and running. The entire team played all of their games with this same pride and poise. They may have been outscored, but they were never outfought, and this is something of which all the the boys can be extremely proud."

The B football team posted a 6-3 record, for third place in the Mount Hamilton Athletic League. "I was very pleased with the record, taking into consideration the inexperience of the team and the tough schedule this year," stated Coach Jack Ogden.

JV'S TAKE FIRST

The junior varsity football team this year rolled to an undefeated season. Two of the many highlights of the season came when the team posted wins over Willow Glen, 13-6, and 14-6.

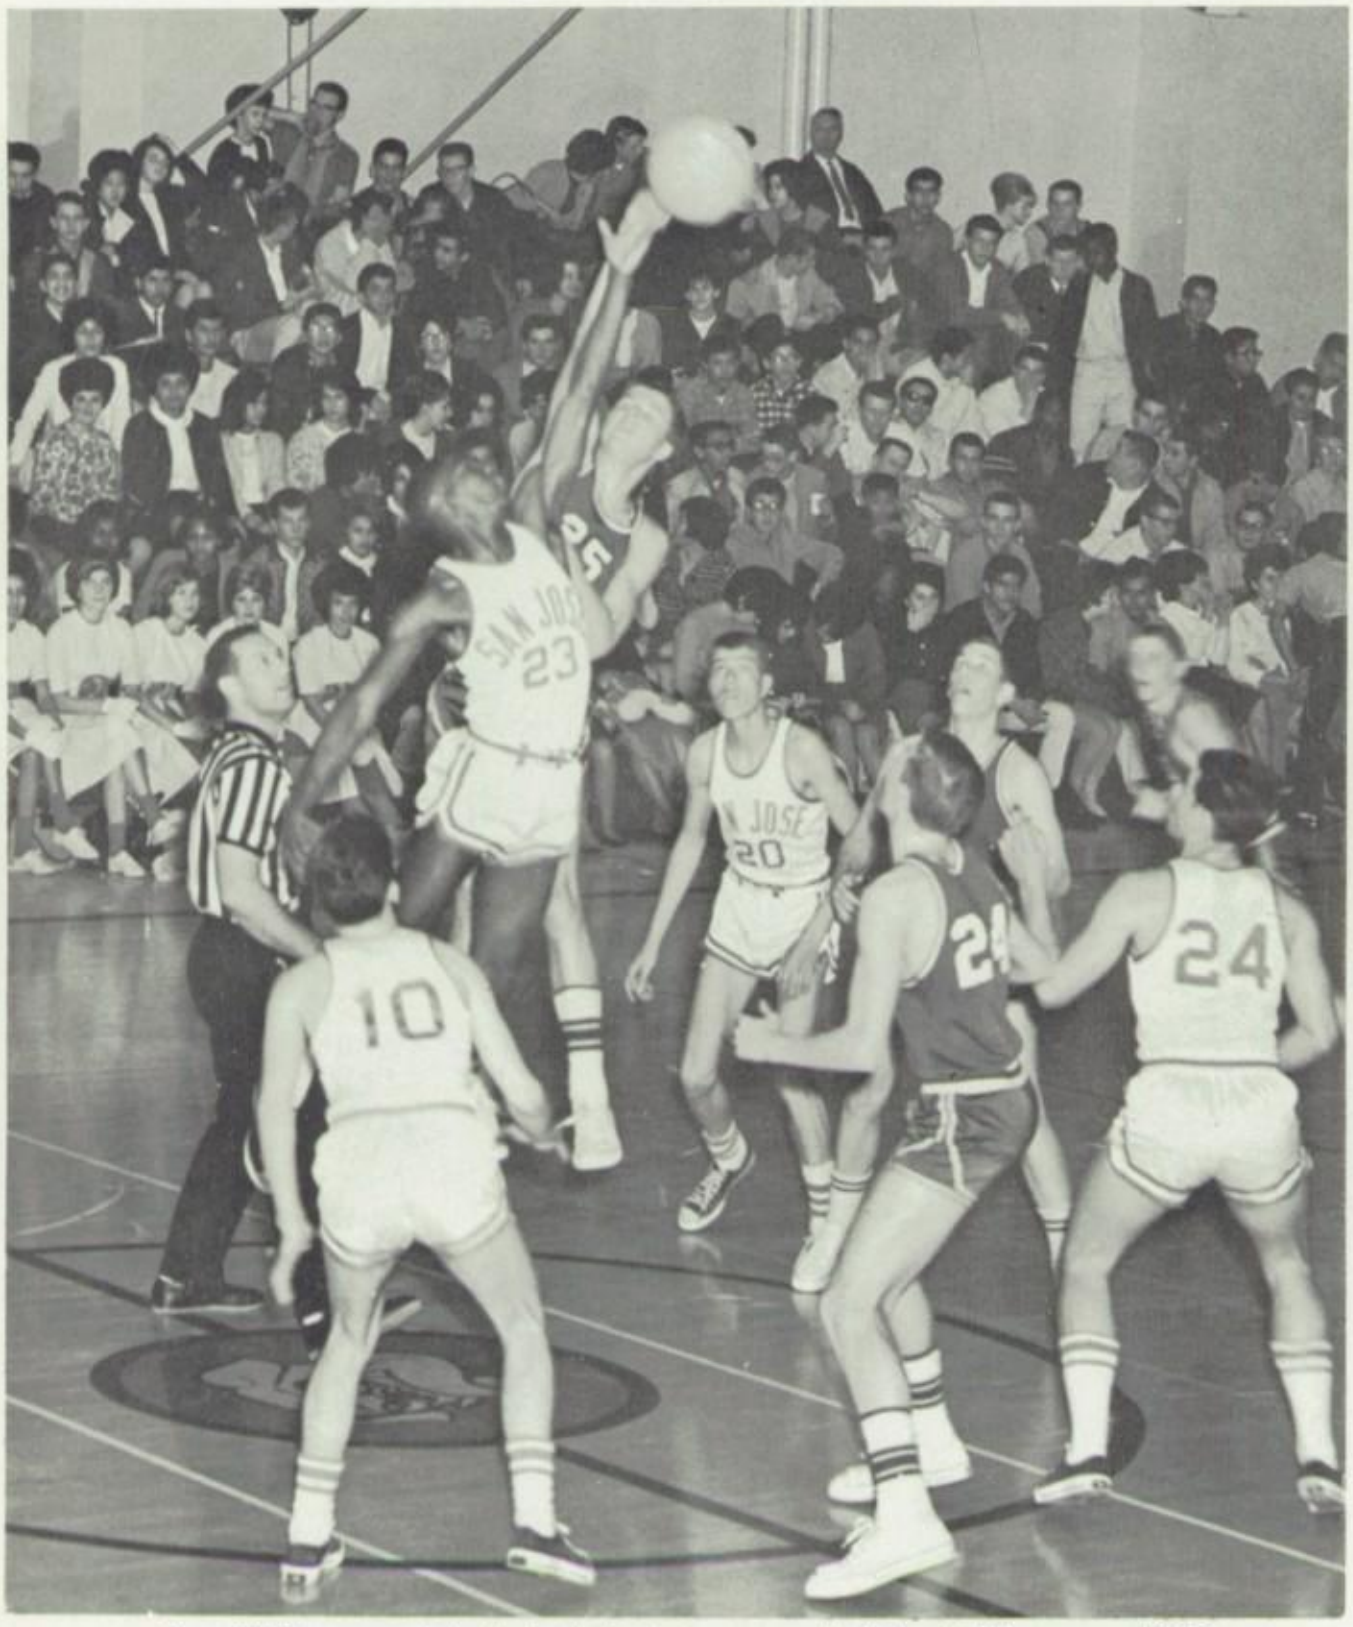
HOOPMEN TAKE SECOND PLACE



Sam Williams controls tip in Irvington game, which the Bulldogs won 43-32.

San Jose's varsity basketball team, with fine spirit, play and coaching, was able to finish second in the MHAL. Coach Don Hogan commented, "We enjoyed a very successful season. Although preseason predictions had us in eleventh place, the determination and desire of the players carried us into the runner-up spot in the league."

Also included in this year's Bulldog season were High's own Centennial Tournament and the Gridley Tournament. The Centennial Tournament was won by Lincoln in the finals against Lick. The coach, commenting on the tournament, said, "Great competition – good sportsmanship – outstanding support."

At Gridley, the Bulldogs came home with the consolation championship. After dropping the opener 59-54 to Harry Ells of Richmond, which took first in the tourney, the Bulldog five beat host Gridley and Encinal for the consolation. Coach Hogan commented, "A good time was had by all and the consolation championship also—a fine way to climax the season."

JV'S SHOW VARSITY POTENTIAL

The junior varsity basketball team ended its season with a 6-2 record. Coach Don Hogan commented, "The boys played really well considering this was their first opportunity to play high school ball. We're counting on them next year when they'll play for the varsity."

B'S TAKE SECOND

San Jose High can be proud of its 1962-63 B basketballl team. In the practice season this team had a fine 6 win 2 loss record. The only losses were to San Francisco lightweight teams, George Washington and Polytechnic.

In spite of a poor start in the league (2 wins, 2 losses), the B's went on to win their last 7 games for a 9 win—2 loss record. While taking second place in the league, San Jose defeated the champion, George Washington, by a resounding score of 42-24. In addition, the B's finished the season with a conclusive victory over the third place team, Abraham Lincoln, by a score of 56-38.

The team operated well together and each man was game captain during the season. Special recognition is due the most valuable player and top scorer: Dennis Yoshida, and the game captain and most inspirational player: Charles Palmer.

The C basketball team had a fine season, sporting a 8-3 record and a second place in the newly formed Mount Hamilton Athletic League. Such a fine showing is the result of hard work and desire. A typical example of this desire was the C's thrilling victory over Willow Glen 37-35, which also climaxed and ended the season.

Coach Don Hogan commented, "The team fought hard all the time — there were many times when we had to come from behind, and this to me is one of the most important things behind the game of sport."

C'S AND D'S PLACE SECOND

This year's D team also had an 8-3 record. The team finished second in the league. These boys will be the nucleus of next year's C team, and the outlook is very good for next season.

Coach Don Hogan stated, "It was amazing to see how quickly the boys adapted to this organized game, considering most of the other teams have freshmen, and have the opportunity to play two years of D basketball.

The varsity spikers dashed to an undefeated season by downing seven Mount Hamilton Athletic League teams in dual-meet competition. The tremendous depth in the running events and the unsurpassed strength of the relay team proved vital at each gathering on the oval. Outstanding performances were turned in by sprinter George Cabibi and quarter-miler Joel Perez. "Dan McGuire, Steve Katsinis, and Richard Cannon also showed fine ability in their events," stated coach Peter Galloni.

WRESTLERS PLACE FOURTH

This year San Jose High's varsity wrestling team finished fourth in league competition. Their fine record of seven wins and four losses can be credited to the outstanding work of coach Dave Nelson, and the overall spirit of the team. Outstanding members of the team were Dave Carbajal and Jack Vaught. These two boys were league champions. Also included in this list of top wrestlers are Walt Armijo, Jerry Ruiz, and Bill Tanaka.

This year's baseball team was blessed with strong pitching. Larry Newman, who has pitched a no-hitter, a one-hitter, and a couple of two-hitters, and Sam Williams, who has also pitched a couple of two-hitters, are proof of the fine pitching. The numerous juniors on the team will provide a good nucleus for next year's team.

The season was highlighted by winning the consolation championship of the Lions Club Baseball Tournament and also capturing second place in the Redwood City Invitational.

The sophomore baseball team had a good season, winning half its games. Losing several close encounters dropped the team out of title contention. The success of the team in coming back from a poor start was summed up by student coach Robert Hird, who praised the "total team effort and hustle."

The varsity baseball team, coached by Mr. Chris Pappas, is pictured on page at left. Mr. John Iskra is coach of the sophomore baseball team, shown below.

SENIORS

As seniors we have worked to gain the admiration and respect of both the faculty and the underclassmen. Now we face the opportunity to go into many walks of life, and there to display the same qualities we have brought into the classroom to be shaped and polished. As we do, we strive to keep in mind the lessons we have learned, in working together but being personally responsible, and in trying to approach each new problem with the confidence and humility gained in solving classroom problems.

As we have learned in the classroom, so must we carry our learnings into our future lives.

But wherever time may lead us, our lives have been influenced and enlightened by the things we remember in our young years. "Our roots are broad and deep."

As sophomores, we entered San Jose High with curiosity, spirit, and pride.

Our curiosity was soon satisfied when we discovered the many activities that awaited us upon our first taste of high school life. The sophomore welcome dance, "Bulldog Trot," was our first class activity.

Our spirit developed with the start of football season, and remained with us throughout our entire three years. And who can forget the Big Bone Victory score of 20-6?

Our pride emerged as we were introduced to the many fine traditions San Jose High has upheld through the years.

The Christmas formal was appropriately titled "Winter Whirl," and Bulldog Capers of 1961 was the humorously wonderful show of "Guys and Dolls." Our sophomore hop, "Sham Rock," was our biggest event, while our sophomore picnic closed the first year.

In the fall of '61 we returned to the Bulldog campus as juniors. Once again the Bone was kept at home with a close 14-13 victory over Lincoln. The winter season was brightened with the Christmas formal in the form of "Woodland Mist," while "The Pajama Game," a Broadway hit, was presented as the Bulldog Capers production. The junior prom, "Magic is the Night," will be an ever-remembered one. Climaxing the junior activities was our enjoyable junior picnic.

Then, in the fall of '62, we humble former juniors began our "Mighty Senior Year."

Although we lost the Bone to Lincoln for the first time in five years, our spirit remained with us through our senior year.

The Christmas formal theme was, "A Christmas to Remember," while "Bye Bye Birdie" served as the '63 Capers.

The Centennial Banquet, in honor of the school's centennial, was held on May 18 at the County Fairgrounds Exposition Hall, and the unforgettable Senior Ball, "Golden Moments," was held at the newly built Elks Club. Our senior picnic was held at a surprise location.

Date: June 13, 1963; Time: 8:00 p.m.; Place: San Jose Civic Auditorium. As the theme of "Pomp and Circumstance" was heard, we marched together as a group for the last time, thinking, with diploma in hand, of the future — hoping for success and happiness.

SPRING SPECIAL

Seniors collected paper in fund-raising drive.

In celebration of its centennial year, the San Jose High School "Bell" proudly presents a section unique in history. Even the souvenir graduation numbers issued in the early years of the "Bell," starting in 1898, have never included an actual photo of the high point of a Highan's career, his graduation.

In the ten succeeding pages are portrayed highlights of the spring and centennial activities. Inclusion of the graduation week activities was made possible by the favorable acceptance by the Associated Student Body membership, the publishers of the "Bell," of the idea of all-year coverage in a book delivered during the late summer. This publication date, too, is unprecendented in San Jose High School history, it is believed.

Boys outcollected girls; so girls were slaves on "slave day."

Another slave at work.

CENTENNIAL BANQUET

The high point of the centennial year observance was the impressive and mammoth banquet in Exposition Hall of the Santa Clara County Fairgrounds the evening of Saturday, May 18. A highlight was the brief recounting of San Jose High School's history by City Historian Clyde Arbuckle. Some 1,900 persons, including alumni, faculty, former faculty, current students, and community dignitaries attended. The banquet followed an alumni-student baseball game (supposedly a 6-6 tie) and 10 a.m.-3 p.m. open house at the school. A plaque was also placed that morning by the Native Sons of the Golden West at the Horace Mann School former site of San Jose High School. Banquet scenes: Above, Sen. Herbert Jones '98; top to bottom, "old-timers' table," classes of 1913, 1914 and 1915.

Above, view of part of the crowd of 1,900 at the banquet gives some idea of the scope of the historic event. Mr. Gene Long, current principal, is at the speaker's rostrum, top center. Directly below him are the three vice principals. The entire centennial year was later described by Mrs. Thomas Eagan, Parent-Teachers Association president, as a tremendous accomplishment by Mr. Long.

AWARDS ASSEMBLY

Reflecting high academic achievements of students was the awards assembly Friday morning, June 7. For nearly two hours scholarship and other awards were heaped upon students. Scholarships totaled more than $18,000. They are listed below as they appeared in the commencement program.

In photos at left, top, Edward Laclergue receives the Edward M. Jefferson scholarship award, Bausch and Lomb honorary science medal and Gorham football award from Principal Gene Long. He also won Class of '55 outstanding student award. Center, Richard Lopez receives Jesse Lasky cornet medal from Music Department Chairman Ross Berzantz; Vice Principal Karl Pedersen is at right. Below, Ruben Aguila receives centennial scholarship from Mr. Long.

The top athletic award, the Walter L. Bachrodt trophy, went to Sam Williams.

Other Gorham athletic awards went to Larry Newman for baseball, Adrian Rodriguez for wrestling, and Manuel Vierra for basketball. Alfred Husted won the tennis award, the Class of '48 swimming prize went to Douglas Rowe; and a junior, George Cabibi, won the William Martin track trophy. Margaret Monchiero won the Girls Block SJ award for outstanding girl athletes.

Senior Richard Peterson was named Thespian dramatic award winner and best actor while Rose Soto, junior, was best actress. Barbara Mecklenburg, student band director, won the John Phillip Sousa Music award.

In science Frank Mestemaker won the senior science award of the Joint Council on Science and Mathematics, while Louise Willig was math winner. Junior Royce Morrison won both junior categories and best chemistry and mathematics student awards.

Cheryl Lett was named best typist, Norma Lee outstanding business education student, Gerimae Lee Daughters of the American Revolution winner, Sharon Williams winner of the Betty Crocker homemaker of tomorrow award, and Dan Robertson, John Neidiver, and Mary Lou Dawson Time Education Program winners.

PICNICS

High points of spring recreation are the class picnics. Lower classmen hold after-school frolics by girls' gym and pool. Upper left photo is of the sophomore picnic Tuesday, June 4. Other photos are of junior picnic on Thursday, June 6. Seniors spent the day at surprise location, Uvas Meadows park, on Wednesday, June 12, the day before graduation.

SENIOR CELEBRATION

"Ideal couple," Nick Carter and Sharon Williams, chosen in "Senior Scandal Sheet" poll, reflect the "good old days" during visit to historic museum in San Jose at Trader Lew's. Upper right and below, senior "dress-down day" Thursday, June 6, preceded "dress-up day" Friday, awards assembly day. Lower right, Mrs. Karen Eknoian, Mrs. Diane Hawes and Mr. Walter Kraus, latter two chosen seniors' favorite teachers, serve senior breakfast, held graduation morning, June 13, in school cafetorium for first time within memory. Manuel Alcaraz is senior seated at right.
